'DEAR MR. CHURCHILL, MORE ON THEIR WAY'—“Thumbs up,” Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, tells Consolidated Aircraft employees at San Diego, Calif., their planes will “alter the outward appearance of Berlin.” On the tail of the huge bomber behind him is the message he inscribed: “Dear Mr. Churchill: There are 100 more like this on their way to help you finish the job.”

BERLIN (AP)—The German high command tonight claimed German submarines had sunk 19 ships, totaling 116,500 tons, from a British convoy in the Atlantic while fighting “for days” against destroyers, corvettes, submarine traps and auxiliary cruisers. (Immediate comment on this enemy claim was not available in London.)

King's Brother In Canada

Kent Reaches Ottawa, Starts Air Inspection

OTTAWA (CP)—Greeted only by high government officials, the Duke of Kent arrived in Ottawa today and went to bed at Government House, tired after a quick overnight flight from Britain.

The King's brother, who is an air commodore on the staff of the Inspector-General of the Royal Air Force, was greeted at Montreal, where he first landed, by Air Vice-Marshal L. S. Breadner, chief of staff of the Royal Canadian Air Force. The Duke's uncle, the Earl of Athlone, Governor-General of Canada, greeted him at Ottawa airport and took him in his car to Government House.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, British High Commissioner in Canada, were also at the airport.

In the first plane was the Duke, Group Captain Sir Louis Greig, his aide, Air Vice-Marshal Breadner, and Air Commodore H. Edwards, member of the Canadian Air Council.

The second plane carried Lieut. L. J. Ferguson, an aide to the Duke; J. A. Lowther, his private secretary, and the Duke's valet.

The Duke will remain in Ottawa a day or two before starting his westward journey, which will include visits to Trenton, Camp Borden, Winnipeg, Regina, Moose Jaw, Brandon, Calgary, Vancouver, Victoria, Edmonton and other points.

Tomorrow night the Duke and his party will be guests of the government of Canada at a dinner at the Country Club, with Prime Minister King as host.

The Duke's arrival today took even government officials by surprise because of the secrecy which surrounded his departure from Britain.

In Canada he will have “a program as arduous and extensive as that which was undertaken by the King and Queen during the Royal Tour,” said an official statement.

“The major difference (from the Royal Tour) is that the visit of His Royal Highness is primarily service in character and is not to be regarded as one of state,” said the statement.

“While to the degree that time and circumstances will permit, the Duke will make public appearances and inspect factories, shipyards, etc., the primary purpose of his trip is to see the operations of the air force and to give all the time possible to that, particularly the training plan.

Whipping Nips in Bud Boy's Career of Crime

A trip to the woodshed with father at his heels nipped in the bud a career of crime which a 14-year-old Saanich boy had started with six other boys about the same age, who called themselves “The Blue Wasps,” the gang responsible for more than 30 burglaries in the city, Saanich and outside territory.

It was learned today a seventh boy was implicated in one of the gang's early robberies. On investigation of Saanich police, Constables Cecil Pearce and Bert Pearson, working with city police on the case, the reason for his taking part in only one hold-up was discovered.

The boy's father learned what his son had done and a whipping resulted. There was no more night prowling for this lad.

This happened last January. The six others continued thieving until captured Saturday. They may be connected with more than the 30 crimes to which they have confessed.

Most of the thieving was committed in the last three weeks, although some has been traced back to the first of the year.

In the robberies the thieves secured cash and articles valued at several hundred dollars. Damage they did to the offices they broke into was extensive also.

Police today learned the “wasps” also broke into Shank's Motorcycle Works, Signal Oil Company, Mooney's Body Building, Howard Lillie and Clark's Garage. They robbed Clark's garage three times. They also made an attempt to enter Junkie Auto Wreckers, View Street.

They will appear before Magistrate Hall in juvenile court next week.

Police said the youths got the idea of staging a juvenile crime wave from a motion picture serial.

'Take Over Canada' Says U.S. Senator

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Worth Clark, Democrat, Idaho, suggested today the U.S. “take over control” of Canada and all Latin America, but Senator J. C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming, immediately branded the idea as fantastic and imperialistic.

O'Mahoney said he was sure no one in the western part of the U.S. would support Clark.

Clark said “the good neighbor policy has been a failure. Instead of talking about sending soldiers to Europe we ought to think about using them here in our own hemisphere.”

He mentioned puppet governments as a possible means of United States control of western hemisphere countries.

“Any such suggestion is utterly at variance with the historic policy of the U.S.,” O'Mahoney said. “It is inconceivable to me that it could be seriously made.”

Clark said “it probably would not be necessary to fire a single shot to take control of this whole hemisphere.”

Of Canadians he said, “they are just as willing as the Latin Americans to take our money and use it, not to promote hemispherical solidarity, but for their own selfish ends.”

Russians Extend Attacks To All Chief Sectors of Front

Canadian and Associated Press

Russian counter-attacks against Nazi armies were reported in Moscow to have spread to all major sectors of the front. Soviet atmosphere was one of calm confidence.

Russian military observers said the Germans still were trying to push forward, particularly in the Smolensk sector, but both there and in the Zhitomir region of the Ukraine were “breaking against the firmness and stubbornness” of the defenders. Nazi losses were described as heavy.

TRENCH WARFARE

A modified form of trench warfare was reported in the north, around Porkhov, with the Germans meeting stiff resistance while digging in along temporary hollows, trying to edge forward and then digging in again.

Berlin, on the other hand, claimed Russian troops “overthrown in the course of our breakthrough of the Stalin Line, in the direction of Smolensk now have been virtually wiped out.”

GERMANS BOAST

Within a few days, said the high command, “a great number of prisoners and a large amount of booty will be reported—as a result of this tremendous battle of destruction.”

The Germans claimed Bessarabia now “is completely liberated.”

RUSSIAN MILITARY MISSION ARRIVES IN U.S.—Headed by Lieut.-Gen. Philip Ivanovitch Golikov, Russian military mission arrives at New York's LaGuardia Field to study Soviet war needs. Golikov headed a similar mission to Great Britain at the outbreak of the war. Left to right, Russian Ambassador Constantine Oumansky; Golikov, and Col. Alexander Respin, Golikov's assistant.

Moscow was raided by German bombers again during the night and Russians said nine of the invaders were shot down. A small number of casualties and some fires were reported. Nearly 150 German planes took part in the five and a half hour raid.

The Nazis said armament plants, supply industries and traffic facilities were bombed in Moscow.

Nippon Already Violating Indo-China Agreement?

Jap Demands on Thailand Reported

Canadian and Associated Press

Japan's swing to the south assumed an even broader aspect today, risking new Anglo-American resentment.

A Reuters' news agency report from Bangkok said Japan had offered Cambodia and Laos, which are part of French Indo-China, to Thailand (Siam) in return for her allegiance to Japan's “new order” in Asia.

Such a division of Indo-China would violate the French-Japanese protocol signed in Vichy today, which pledges Japan to “respect the territorial integrity of French Indo-China and the sovereign rights of France over all parts of the Indo-Chinese union.”

British authorities in Shanghai said they would protest if Thailand were forced to grant special privileges to any third power—obviously, a reference to Japan—and they scoffed at Tokyo broadcasts that British forces in northern Malaya were an active threat to the Thais.

Informed Shanghai quarters were unable to confirm reports that Japan had served demands on Thailand, but observers recalled that Tokyo had made similar charges of outside “threats” just before making demands for bases in southern Indo-China.

In Washington Sumner Welles, Acting Secretary of State, said today the United States had given no assurance to Japan that licenses will be issued to permit continuing trade with that country.

Motorists Stranded By Sunday Gas Ban

Four instances of motorists, two of them visiting tourists, being stranded on the highway with their gas tanks dry and unable to refill them due to the new government restrictions were disclosed today by B.C. and Saanich police.

Two tourists called at the Saanich police station Sunday stating they had run out of gas. Police had none to give them. Fortunately they both had relatives in Victoria to whom they sent out rescue calls. The relatives siphoned gas out of their own cars and the visitors got back to town.

Provincial police stated they ran across two Victoria residents who had run out of gas on the Island Highway. They had to leave their cars where they stalled until yesterday when gas could be purchased.

A doctor called at the city police station Sunday asking if it would be possible to get a few gallons of gas for his car in order that he could complete some calls, but the police were unable to assist him.

He made this statement in explaining that clearance would be given to Japanese ships leaving American ports under present conditions.

Under the asset freezing order issued last Friday, Welles said individual licenses would be required for every transaction involving Japanese cargoes.

This also affects the purchase of food supplies, fuel and any other goods required by Japanese ships in American ports, he said.

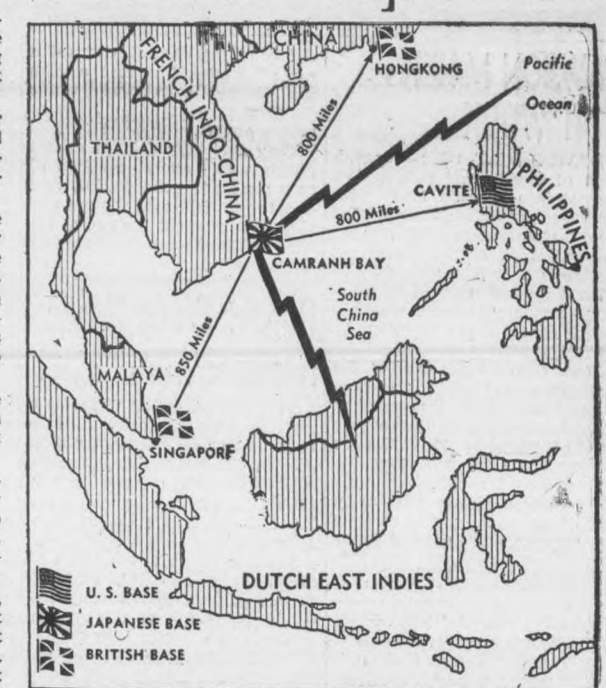

Asked whether Japan had been given assurance that these licenses would be granted, Welles declared emphatically that no such promises had been given.

White House supporters in the Senate urged the administration hold unservingly to its Far East policy.

Senator Claude Pepper, Democrat, Florida, declared bluntly that “now is the time to let Tokyo know whether we mean business. Tokyo, unhappily, knows no language except force.”

Senator Clark Lee, Democrat, Oklahoma, told reporters that “economically, I think we ought to hit Japan with all we've got. Militarily, we ought not to back up an inch. Politically, the people will support such a policy... It is evident our so-called appeasement of Japan has been to no avail.”

Meanwhile today Japan's occupation of southern Indo-China went into high gear as warships and troop transports took garrison troops and military supplies into Camranh Bay, where the men swarmed ashore.

FLAG OF RISING SUN WAVES CLOSER—Mapped here is the significance of Japan's latest move in the Pacific, placing guns and bases of Nippon closer to Singapore and British possessions with Japan's occupation of French Indo-China's Camranh Bay. The long-awaited “move to the south” brings Japanese flying forces not many hours from the Philippines.

At Hanoi it was announced officially a total of 40,000 Japanese troops would be stationed in Saigon, and Tourane, 300 miles southern Indo-China. Troops already have moved into bases at Nhatrang, 200 miles northeast of Saigon, and Tourane, 300 miles up the coast from Saigon.

FLYING FORTRESSES LEAD R.A.F. RAIDS ON GERMAN WARSHIPS—As wire from London told how Boeing Flying Fortresses bombed the German battleship Gneisenau in port at Brest from “fantastic” heights, these pictures were cabled from London showing, above, one of the huge four-motor ships taking off from England and, below, crew boarding another bomber. The raid was part of a series of attacks along the German-held French coast.

'MYSTERY SHIPS' AT ATTENTION—Gleaming as they stand “at attention” at Felts Field, Spokane, Wash., 25 B-25 “mystery bombers” are shown lined up for inspection by Major-General John F. Curry, commander of the Second Air Force. The 17th Bombardment Group and 89 Reconnaissance Squadron are stationed at the field getting ready for any trouble in the Pacific.

DAWSON MINERS QUIT WORK

DAWSON, Y.T. (CP)—A cavalcade of trucks and automobiles poured into Dawson today with employees of Yukon Consolidated Gold Corporation Ltd., who stopped work at the company's workings at 1 p.m. yesterday in protest against refusal of company officials to meet their demands for a flat $1 a day wage increase.

More than 90 per cent of the employees are said to have stopped work after the company refused to accept a petition signed by 414 employees. About 700 are employed in placer mining operations around Dawson.

Company officials told members of an employees' committee that the company's present financial condition did not warrant a wage increase, but that a plan was being considered under which employees would share in future profits.

They said they did not expect profits would allow operation of such a plan this season, but that efforts would be made to pay employees a bonus at the end of the season, based on the number of shifts worked.

Rupert Group Urges National War Cabinet

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—A resolution urging formation of a national war cabinet "as the first step in the restoration of public confidence in the Canadian war effort," has been adopted by the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce.

The resolution urges "men of integrity be included, irrespective of political affiliations, who would place the Canadian war program on a parity with that of Great Britain, regardless of political repercussions now or in the future."

The chamber also approved the principle of a resolution passed last week by the Vancouver Board of Trade favoring conservation of manpower and natural resources.

New Emergency Warning Device

NEW YORK (AP)—A radio device by which a central broadcasting station can summon listeners to their sets to hear air raid or other emergency warnings was tested today by American army officers at Mitchel Field, Long Island.

Explaining the function of the "alert receiver" developed by the Radio Corporation of America, David Sarnoff, R.C.A. president, said it turned on automatically when it received a special in-audible signal from a broadcasting station.

Sarnoff said the receiver rang a bell to summon listeners and shut itself off when an all-clear signal was flashed. It functions 24 hours a day.

War Organization Becoming Total

We are not a totalitarian state, but we are steadily, and, I believe, as fast as possible, working ourselves into a total war organization. . . .

We are always trying to tighten up and make more precise and more definite the work of our purchasing commissions in the United States.

I should certainly not pretend that there is not a great deal of room for improvement and refinement, but it would be a mistake to suppose the efficiency of our purchasing commissions under the supreme control of Mr. Purvis (Rt. Hon. Arthur B. Purvis) in Montreal has not reached a very high level or that it is not constantly being shaped and sharpened.

A year ago, six months ago, there were a lot of troubles and discordances, but latterly, although again I should be the first to hear of them, my information is that they have very largely died away.

We have, of course, come to very clean-cut agreements with our American friends and helpers. They are making immense efforts in the common cause and they naturally ask for the very fullest information as to what is happening to their goods and whether there is waste and misdirection.

It is our duty to satisfy them that there is no muddle or that muddle is reduced to a minimum and that they are getting value for their money.

American Criticism Welcomed

We welcome their criticism because it is at once searching, friendly and well-informed. Improvement in ordering of imports and of British purchases in the United States is in relation to the very large number of competent persons at work on both sides of the ocean.

It is, I am glad to say, steady and progressive. . . . At this point I will deal with a suggestion that a ministry of production should be formed. . . . Some are for complete merging of the supply departments of the Admiralty, Air Ministry and War Office—one great common shop serving all fighting needs. . . . Who is this superman who will dominate the vast, entrenched and embattled organization of the Admiralty. . . . teach the present Ministry of Aircraft Production how to make aircraft quicker and better than they are now being made or who is going to interfere with Lord Beaverbrook as Ministry of Supply?

Churchill In Commons

'We Stand Here Still the Champion'

LONDON (AP)—Following is a partial text of Prime Minister Churchill's speech in the House of Commons today:

On January 22 of this year I explained to the House the system of administration and production it was proposed to adopt. That is the system which we have followed since, and it is the system to which in general and in principle I propose to adhere.

Changes in personnel are enjoined from time to time by the march of events, and the duty of continual improvement. Changes of machinery are enjoined by experience, and naturally while we live we ought to learn.

Change is agreeable to the human mind and gives satisfaction—sometimes short-lived—to ardent and anxious public opinion.

Lurid Pictures Please Enemy

The picture so luridly drawn of chaotic and convulsive struggles of the three supply departments without guidance or design is one which will no doubt be pleasing to our enemies but happily has no relation to the facts.

The question arises, however, whether in their execution of the approved scheme the three supply departments have been wanting in energy or, through excess zeal, have quarreled with each other or trespassed on each other's domains.

There are no doubt instances of friction on the fringes of these powerful organizations, but I do not believe they bear any proportion worth mentioning to their individual and concerted efforts.

At the point which we have now reached in our munitions development almost all firms and factories are working under complete control of the government at fulfillment of an approved and concerted program.

There are no doubt a number of minor aspects of our national life which have not yet been effectively regimented, but when and as they are wanted their turn will come.

Some Feel Work Is to Knock

There are members of all parties who feel their war work should be to belabor the government and to portray everything at its worst in order to produce higher efficiency.

I see a motion has been put on the order paper calling for the appointment of a minister of production.

That is a perfectly proper question and I regret that the motion cannot be moved in that form today.

No one in wartime should be deterred from doing his duty merely because he is voting against the government.

We are often told that "the House thinks this" or "the general feeling was of grave uneasiness and there was much disquiet in the lobby."

All this is telegraphed all over the world with evil effect; but no one has a right to say what is the opinion of the House unless there be a division. . . .

It is a very heavy burden if, without a vote being cast, the idea should be spread that, in the opinion of the Commons, our affairs are being conducted in an incompetent and futile manner and that the whole gigantic effort of British industry is a muddled flop.

Australia Troops Bear Brunt

Australia troops are bearing with great distinction much of the brunt of the fighting in the Middle East and it must be very painful to Australia to be told that we are only making a three-quarters effort here at home to put the proper weapons in their hands.

In America, such a statement is meat and drink to the isolationists.

Americans are asked to pay higher taxes, to give up food, to alter their daily lives, to reduce their holidays and go without pleasures of all kinds in order to help Britain and they are deeply disturbed when they are told on what seems to be a high British authority that we are only making a three-quarters effort to help ourselves.

There are a few reasons why we cannot maintain indefinitely the intensive personal effort of a year ago. If we are to win this war and I feel solidly convinced that we shall—it will be largely by staying power.

For that purpose there must be one day in seven for rest as a general rule and there must be one week's holiday a year. We have relaxed to that extent since Dunkerque. If we had not done so we should have had a serious crash. . . .

We do not stand here to defend the slightest failure of duty or organization, but a kind of whispering campaign has been set on foot. There is a flood of anonymous letters, vague charges are made and all this gets into the shop window greatly to our detriment.

But apart from the circle where all the facts are known, outside in the United States where there is a vigorous campaign against the policy pursued by President Roosevelt I fear that harm has been done. It cannot be easily overtaken or healed. . . .

I am glad to tell the House that our spring and summer fashions in aircraft this year are farther ahead of contemporary German production than they were last year. The enemy borrowed many ideas from our fighter planes when they felt their mettle a year ago and we borrowed some from them. . . .

I come now to the more general charge of slackness and inefficiency in factories, whether due to a local lack of management or to a lack of zeal on the part of the work people.

More Shipbuilding Than in Last War

The combined program of merchant and naval shipbuilding now in active progress is bigger than in any period of the last war although the work now is immeasurably more complex than then.

As to bombers, British production alone—without taking into account American—has doubled our power of bomb discharge on Germany at 1,500 miles range.

In the next three months, taking in American reinforcements, we shall double it again and in next six months after that we shall redouble it. . . .

We are told how badly labor is behaving from a number of people who never did a day's work in their lives.

We had many devastating stoppages and strikes in the last war. In the last two years of it, nearly 12,000,000 days were lost through labor disputes.

During the whole course of this war—23 months—we have lost less than 2,000,000 days.

Warning Against Optimism, Pessimism

When I look out on the whole tumultuous scene of this ever-widening war, I think it is my duty to give a serious warning to the House and the country to be on guard equally against pessimism and against optimism.

There are no doubt temptations to optimism. It is a fact—mighty Russia, so treacherously assaulted, has struck back with such magnificent strength and courage and has brought prodigious and well-deserved slaughter on Nazi armies.

The United States of America, the greatest single power, is giving us aid on a gigantic scale and is advancing in rising wrath and conviction to the very verge of war.

It is a fact the enemy has lost his pretense of theme and doctrine and has sunk ever deeper in moral and intellectual degradation and bankruptcy; that almost all his conquests have proved burdens and worse.

But all the massive, towering facts which we are entitled to dwell upon must not lead us for a moment to propose the worst is over.

The formidable power of Nazi Germany, the vast mass of destructive munitions which they made or captured, the courage, skill and audacity of their striking forces, the ruthlessness of their centralized war direction, the prostrate condition of so many great peoples under their yoke, the resources of many lands which may to some extent become available to them—all these restrain rejoicing and forbid the slightest relaxation.

Armed Services At Concert Pitch

It would be madness for us to suppose Russia or the United States are going to win this war for us. The invasion season is at hand. All the armed forces have been warned to be at concert pitch by September 1 and to maintain the utmost vigilance meanwhile.

We have to reckon with a gambler's desperation. By a mere gesture he decreed the death of three or four million Russian and German soldiers.

We stand here still the champion. If we fall, all fall, and if we fall, all fall. . . .

It is only by a superb, intense and prolonged effort that the whole British Empire—with a great combination of about three-quarters of the human race—against Nazism will come into vehement and dynamic life.

For more than a year we have been all alone. All alone we have had to guard the treasure of mankind. Although there may be profound and encouraging changes in the situation, our own final and commanding responsibilities remain undiminished and we shall only discharge them by continuing to pour out in the common cause the utmost endeavors of our strength and virtue and, if need be, to proffer the last drop of our heart's blood.

34 ENEMY PLANES DESTROYED IN SICILY

CAIRO (AP) Thirty-four Axis planes were destroyed in widespread attacks on Sicilian airbases yesterday, said a Royal Air Force communique today.

Many other machines were damaged and a number of casualties caused among personnel at the airports attacked. No British losses were reported.

Airports bombed were at Catania, Syracuse, Marsala and Bormio near Trapani.

In addition, Bengazi, Libya, was raided again.

A loaded schooner also was left in a sinking condition from an attack in the central Mediterranean.

ITALIAN CLAIMS

ROME (AP)—The Italian high command claimed today Italian mosquito boats sank a British destroyer while returning from an attack on Malta the night of July 25.

The action at sea was said to have followed an attack on the port of Valetta in which small torpedo-launching motorboats escorted secret assault craft.

British authorities reported the Italian raid on Valetta ended disastrously with aerial defenders and shore batteries blowing 17 of the Italian craft out of the water and preventing any of them from entering the harbor.

Two mosquito boats were acknowledged to be missing.

British planes bombed several places in Sicily yesterday afternoon, the high command said, and Italian fighter planes shot down a bomber at sea about 18 miles off Augusta.

An Italian submarine in the Atlantic claimed it had sunk a 7,000-ton oil tanker.

Police Keep Order After Soldier-Union Clash

Hamilton Steel Plant Picketed

HAMILTON (CP)—Pickets marched outside the National Steel Car Corporation's plant peacefully today, after an early-morning clash with uniformed soldiers, while plant and union officials gave conflicting statements as to the effectiveness of a strike called by the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee.

"The plant is operating effectively and on a much greater scale than last night," said A. F. Gill, deputy government controller, but union officials claimed the only workers who entered the corporation grounds were about 300 inspectors employed by the British supply board.

Two workers in the picket line required hospital treatment after the soldiers and pickets had scuffled and swung fists. Ray Shea, 37, had his jaw dislocated and Hugh Cameron suffered scalp lacerations. Hospital attendants reported their condition as satisfactory.

The soldiers, from the army trade school in Hamilton, said they acted on their own initiative and were under no orders. Officials at the school said they were considering what action was to be taken against the soldiers.

Within an hour after the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee had announced a strike at the plant the soldiers, 300 strong, marched and charged the picket lines.

Placards and signs were torn from the pickets' hands and trampled. Scuffles broke out and the picket line was dispersed. It reformed and again the soldiers charged.

From the uniformed men came shouts of "What are you holding up war production for? How would you like to earn $1.30 a day?" As the fighting broke out officers from the school arrived and started to round up the uniformed men.

There was no indication of trouble as the men on picket duty formed up outside the plant. Employees who wished to work were not interfered with.

The huge plant has employed about 2,800 persons on war orders.

The controversy centred around the union's demand that company representatives be authorized to negotiate with a committee appointed by the union, whether or not members be employees of the plant. A proposal by Labor Minister McLarty that "a committee of employees elected by the union" meet with A. F. Gill, assistant controller, were termed "unsatisfactory."

Col. D. A. White, commandant of the Canadian Army Training School, describing the soldiers' action, as "entirely spontaneous," said "a thorough investigation is being made."

June Savings Total $550,000

British Columbia's war savings total for June was approximately $550,000, just over half the quota for the province, according to the latest War Savings bulletin.

The rate per capita for June was 71 cents. In this respect, British Columbia was second only to Ontario, where the rate per capita was 96 cents.

"That there is a great deal yet to be done is evidenced by the fact that from the 700,000 people in British Columbia only 81,160 applications were received in Ottawa last month," said the bulletin.

"The payroll plan now accounts for almost 50 per cent of our total, but it alone can be developed to provide $1,000,000 a month. The number of firms who have made this plan available for their employees has doubled in the last four months, but the total at the end of June was just over 1,600, and of these less than two-thirds actually made remittances in that month. There is still much to be done, but the simplicity and regularity of this method of saving is such that it should be employed by every firm in British Columbia."

Employees of Consolidated Mining and Smelting at Trail are permitted to work during their holidays and draw holiday pay in War Savings Certificates, the bulletin records.

Interest has been created by companies with facilities for multiplying and stenciling who are taking advantage of the imagination and talent of their own workers to sell the payroll savings plan constantly through weekly posters, charts and cartoons.

With the harvest season ahead, intensive organization of co-operatives, creameries and cheese factories, packing houses and other seasonal producers is being undertaken in order to make the new rural savings plan effective and efficient.

A new issue of war savings stamps, in eight colors and designs, will be available in the fall. These will make the stamps more attractive and encourage collection of sets.

Squadron Leader Shell is a member of the New Zealand War Publicity Committee and has as his special duty the promotion of war savings. He said that in New Zealand the number of war savers was increasing steadily. He said the savings methods of Canada and New Zealand differed only with regard to collection. Collections in New Zealand are made through special war bankbooks, which show war savings credits in postal savings accounts.

"The local war savings committee now has available to the public 500 copies of the pamphlet published by the director of public information on Canada's war effort."

"We can provide this pamphlet to anyone interested in knowing facts rather than spreading rumors," said Mrs. H. S. Hurn, honorary secretary of the Vancouver Island War Savings Committee.

MOHANDAS K. GANDHI, nationalist leader of India, in a magazine article: "We wish no harm to the British" for their defeat would connote the victory of the Nazis, which we do not and must not desire."

Writing in Look magazine, the 70-year-old Gandhi said: "India asks from Great Britain the right to determine for herself her own future. We ask that the British government make this possible by giving effect to the decision of a duly elected constituent assembly of India." Then he added: "Whatever others may think, India does not desire her independence out of Britain's ruin."

Journalist's Suggestion

U.S. Squadron in Singapore Necessary to Warn Japanese

The United States should give a clean-cut warning to Japan to halt in the south by moving a naval squadron to Singapore, in the opinion of Irving Brant, expert on international affairs and contributing editor of the St. Louis Star-Times.

Mr. Brant is resting in Victoria with his wife and daughter, Robin, after finishing three volumes on the life of James Madison, which is announced in New York for autumn publication.

Mr. Brant is one of the far-seeing U.S. journalists who predicted the Nazi move into Russia as long as two years ago, and also believed that Hitler would find the Red army a tougher nut to crack than he thought.

Joint Action, U.S. and Britain

"I think," he said, "that the United States and Great Britain should be ready to oppose by joint military action any extension of Japanese aggression southward against British or Dutch possessions, and that the United States should make that perfectly evident to Japan before Japan undertakes such a venture."

"The most effective warning, and one which would not involve Japan directly would be for the United States to station a naval squadron at Singapore."

That Japan would be sensitive to a movement of the U.S. fleet is quite clear, he said. Once before the fleet moved out of Pearl Harbor and it was thought they were going to the Atlantic. Immediately Japan's tone became stronger. If the fleet moves away from Hawaii now Japan cannot make any mistake in its interpretation.

In the Russo-German conflict Mr. Brant sees borne out what was clearly evident to an experienced observer before the war began. He was in Russia in July, 1939, in Germany in August and in England in September.

All Russ Moves Aimed at Hitler

"Although Russia then was on the eve of signing its pact with the Nazis, Mr. Brant said there was a recognition of such a hostility on the part of Hitler as to indicate that all Russian moves in the early part of the war were directed toward a strengthening of Russian defences against Germany, rather than any fundamental co-operation.

(In articles at that time Mr. Brant wrote that Russia appeared to recognize Germany as its only enemy. He also said the strength of the Red army appeared to be underestimated.)

"The Finnish campaign, at the outset, made me think I had misjudged the Red army and overestimated its strength," he said. "But, now, they appear to be doing against Hitler just what I thought they intended, on the basis of my original impression."

"Was it a surprise to you, then, that the Russians have put up such a fight against Hitler?" Brant was asked.

"I must confess it was," he replied, "but it would not have been a surprise if there had been no Finnish campaign in the meantime. It looks as if the Finnish campaign fooled Hitler more than anyone."

Finn Campaign Terrible Blunder

Although he may have fooled Hitler, Stalin made a huge mistake in embarking on his Finnish adventure, Mr. Brant believes.

"Events show that Stalin strengthened his defensive position by occupying Polish territory and the three Baltic countries, but he made a terrible blunder, both morally and militarily in invading Finland," he said.

"The particular objective for which he went to war with Finland was the Hango Peninsula. This proved to be so exposed that he abandoned it voluntarily the moment Hitler struck. And the Finnish campaign insured Finland's counter-attack, besides losing heavily for Russia in the sympathies of the rest of the world."

Stalin Should Have Hit First

A more serious Russian blunder was in assuming that France and Great Britain would hold the western front until the Germans were exhausted, he said.

"That would not have improved Stalin's prospects when he came to stand before St. Peter, but he probably thinks Lenin is in St. Peter's chair now, just as Lenin had taken the place of St. Petersburg," he added with a smile.

World Domination Aims Now Proved

Hitler's Russian campaign proved that the Nazi dictator had again reverted to the program laid down in Mein Kampf—from which he had never departed for long, said Mr. Brant.

"And that is sufficient to prove he still has in mind the ultimate objective of Mein Kampf—the domination by the Germans of the entire world."

Mr. Brant said the general impression he received in Russia as to its defensive strength was that it had an army that seemed intelligent and well set up in the rank and file, with great emphasis on motorized equipment.

However, the industry of the country seemed to be operating at such low level of efficiency as to create doubt whether the motorized equipment would stand up in warfare, he said.

Tolerant Toward Racial Minorities

The most strengthening factor in Russia, he believed, was the tolerant attitude of the Soviet government toward the diverse racial strains and cultural minorities. There was an indication in Moscow picture houses of a sympathetic acceptance, for instance, of Ukrainian culture, which made it hard to believe the stories in the English-speaking press about the certainty of a Ukrainian revolt against the Soviet in event of war with Germany.

"I should say there seemed to be the same general acceptance of Russian social and political systems among the Russians as the apparent acceptance of Hitler by the masses of the German people. That is, in both countries the institutions and the ruling regimes were taken for granted, with no evidence of particular enthusiasm but with no signs of hostility.

Mr. Brant does not foresee any likelihood of a revolt in Russia, except, of course, in the event of a military defeat. A revolt under such circumstances would happen in any dictator country.

Never Heard 'Hitler' After 'Heil'

So far as the people accepting the existing regimes in Russia and Germany is concerned, Mr. Brant commented:

"I saw only two Communist salutes in Russia: one given by Stalin himself in reviewing a sports parade; the other by a drunk in a street car."

"In Germany I heard innumerable 'Heils, but was never able to hear the 'Hitler' following them. The Nazi salute was universal, but amounted only to a flip of the hand. On the one occasion when I saw a Nazi salute of the kind featured in the propaganda pictures a group of Germans who witnessed it burst into laughter."

"Yet, from talking to these same Germans during a bus ride, I concluded they were all sympathetic to the German government. Those with whom I talked seemed to think there would be no war because Hitler always got what he wanted without having to fight."

"But, Mr. Brant said, 'the general attitude in Germany made him think that German morale would sink very fast in the wake of military defeat.'

"I would say that still holds true," he added, "although it has been said the Germans are so afraid of what would happen to them in defeat that they would fight desperately to the last. They fear a wholesale massacre of Germans in the occupied countries."

Mr. Brant is a supporter of the Roosevelt foreign policy, although he thinks it somewhat hazardous and would be inclined to take firmer steps on occasion. "I think the President sees the necessity of taking any action necessary to bring about the defeat of Hitler," he declared, "even to the extent of full American participation in the war, but he is very anxious to bring about Hitler's defeat without any participation by American land forces."

Roosevelt Policy Justified at Time

"I agree with this, but I consider it a hazardous policy, on account of the danger that increasing steps of participation may come too late to prevent the need for still greater participation. What I mean is, the use of the navy this year might avert the need for using the army next year."

"The justification for the President's policy lies in the fact he could not do many of the things he has done earlier than he has done them because he has to have the support of public opinion. And each time a step has been taken it seemed that public opinion was ready for it."

While in Victoria Mr. Brant is revising a manuscript on north-west history he wrote some years ago. He and his family are going to Campbell River next week.

Industries Take Men From Farms

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. (CP)—Harry Leader, member of Parliament for Portage la Prairie, said he had been informed by Labor Minister McLarty that Canadian provinces must look to themselves, not to the Dominion, to assist them in any farm labor shortage.

He said Mr. McLarty's view was contained in a letter received from the Labor Minister in reply to a request that the federal government consider the plight of the producers. The Portage member, in a statement to his constituents, quoted Mr. McLarty as follows:

"There can be no question but that the demand for industrial employment in rural communities is having an effect on farm labor. Generally speaking, of course, the farm labor problem must necessarily be a provincial one by reason of the wide divergence of conditions in the various provinces in Canada."

Mr. Leader said the minister had added that in Ontario $60,000 had been voted by the Dominion government, and a similar amount by the province to stimulate labor supply.

Take Over Tobacco Crop

CANBERRA (AP)—Assistant Minister of Commerce Anthony today said manufacturers are undertaking the purchase of all useable flue-cured tobacco leaf grown in Australia in 1942 at prices not lower than those paid in 1941, during which prices averaged two shillings sixpence (approximately 45 cents Canadian funds) a pound.

A conference is being arranged at which prices, grades and types of tobacco are to be discussed.

2-fold Task After War

'Germany Won't Have Another Chance'—Eden

LONDON (CP)—Foreign Secretary Eden outlined today a two-fold task for Britain and her allies "when this war is won."

Addressing a Foreign Press Association luncheon, he said that "in the military sphere it is our bounden duty to insure that Germany is not again in another 20 years in position to plunge the world into the misery and horror of total war."

It also will be the duty of the Allies "to start at once upon the fashioning of the world in such shape that the causes of rivalry and hatred will be gradually removed and, we pray, eventually eradicated."

No Discussion With Hitler

Mr. Eden declared that "we are not interested in any peace terms that Hitler and his government may put forward" and that "four great countries are moving even closer today in their determination to withstand the common menace of Hitler and of any who work for him."

"The U.S.S.R., China, the United States of America and the British Empire are surely pretty formidable obstacles to aggression," he added.

Countries Face Postwar Exhaustion

"Europe after the war," he said, "will be in a state of exhaustion, short of the materials necessary for reconstruction, torn by hatred, confused and doubtful of the road to follow. Then there will be a great task to be undertaken, and as we believe the United States of America will help us—is indeed helping us—to defeat Germany, so we hope they will work with us in keeping, through the generations, the peace we shall have won."

Hitler embarked on the Soviet campaign, the Foreign Secretary declared, in an effort to smash quickly the Russian military power, and then, "in a pose of the champion of anti-Communism, to offer a German peace to the world."

Unable to Keep Timetable

The German timetable for the subjugation of Russia "is plainly out of joint," but the "peace blitz" by means of which Hitler "hopes to keep his promise to the German people to end the war this year with victory" is certain to be offered soon, Mr. Eden said.

Ready to Promise Almost Everything

Hitler's proposals, the secretary said, "will promise many things to many people, perhaps even liberation to some of the occupied countries, maybe restoration of France to her place as a great power, recognition—indeed perhaps guarantees—of the British Empire. . . . Germany, we shall be told, will be ready as a good neighbor and a good European to co-operate in the restoration of trade."

But, he declared, Hitler's peace terms would mean "every nation would have to remain at its war stations."

"Such an offer in itself should suffice to warn us, for few indeed, are the nations that have survived a Hitler guarantee of their integrity. His enmity is less dangerous than his friendship."

He went on: "Peace with Hitler is a contradiction in terms. There can be no peace with such a man, there can only be a truce, an uneasy truce which will give him time to overhaul and oil his war machine, a truce which will give the German people a breathing space before he and they resume the war."

Must Expose Hitler As Big Fraud

To accept Hitler's peace terms would mean that "every nation would have to remain at its war stations," the Foreign Secretary said, and added:

"If we are to have peace in our lifetime the German people must learn to unlearn all they have been taught not only by Hitler but by his predecessors for the last 100 years, by so many of their philosophers, teachers and disciples of blood and iron. They can never even start to do this until Hitler, the great war-maker, has been exposed as a fraud and deposed as a failure."

"We are determined upon the destruction of Hitler, his regime and all he stands for. For we know that until this is achieved no foundation will exist upon

Hitler is "the expression of the present German will and temper, which has shown itself over and over again in German history. . . . So long as he is in power the German people will continue to expect war. They will begin again to prepare for war. They will wish and work for war. . . . You cannot get peace for one of the greatest war-makers the world has ever seen," Mr. Eden said.

The Foreign Secretary concluded with a statement that at present the war developments are "by no means wholly unfavorable to us."

King's Brother Arrives

BECAUSE THE VISIT TO CANADA OF the Duke of Kent is of a "service" rather than an official nature, the King's brother will confine most of his public appearances to inspections of the vast Empire Air Training Plan, and to such aspects of the nation's war effort as will furnish him with a first-hand knowledge of what the Dominion is doing. Of the warmth of Canada's welcome he is assured. His journey across the Atlantic by bomber obviously was in keeping with his desires. He is attached to the Royal Air Force and for a long time he has been a keen student of the multifarious mechanics of aerial warfare. Flying men throughout the country will be especially glad to see one of their number. All Canadians will hope his stay in their midst will be interesting and profitable to himself, that he will be able to take back to His Majesty a heartening account of what he sees, and what may be expected from this senior overseas Dominion as the conflict proceeds toward the day of complete victory over Hitlerism and all the detestable things the term connotes.

Fuel Shortage?

FROM CAIRO TODAY COMES A ROYAL Air Force communique reporting the destruction of 34 Axis planes in widespread attacks on Sicilian airdromes yesterday, with many other machines damaged, and substantial casualties caused among the personnel of the airports attacked. No British losses were sustained.

Wishful thinking at this stage of the conflict, of course, must be considered the height of bad manners in terms of war psychology. But if any substantial quantity of enemy fighting planes are left in a vulnerable position on the ground, especially in close proximity to the British Mediterranean life line, it is by no means extravagant to wonder if, by any chance, Italy's share of the common enemy's fuel supply is running low. It already has been reported from the Russo-German front that Nazi tanks have been buried to serve as machine gun nests—a development, if true, which might partly explain the grounding of Axis machines, even in that part of Italy where they are most needed to protect supplies crossing from the mainland to Tripoli on the north African coastline.

It would be foolish, of course, to try to read into this official announcement of the destruction of so many enemy craft, without loss to the Royal Air Force, more than is suggested by the bare result of the raid. We can be gratified, at any rate, with the fact that there will now be at least 34 fewer Axis planes to harry British shipping in the Mediterranean.

Gasoline Conservation

ESTIMATES VARY ON THE NUMBER of private automobiles that were parked in the vicinity of the Langford auto-racing track last Saturday night. Some say 300 and others put the figure at between 400 and 500. Even if there were only 250, a conservative figure, the amount of gasoline consumed on the trip from town and back again would be considerable. We are not concerned specifically how users of motor fuel allocate their daily consumption in the light of the nation's need for conservation of this vital war commodity. Many who went to the races on the eve of the imposition of new gasoline restrictions may have made up their minds to have a final fling before getting down to the realities of the situation. The point we wish to make, however, is that unless practical co-operation shall be forthcoming on the part of the motoring public, the authority in charge of fuel oil distribution will have no alternative but to place restrictions that will be more irksome than otherwise need be the case. The Canadian people have been asked, as a war measure of compelling importance, to use less gasoline so that the available supply for bombers and tanks shall not be jeopardized.

A Conservative Realist

ONE OF CANADA'S ABLEST AND BEST-known journalists and a life-long Conservative has taken a whack at that element which could not see any virtue whatsoever in even a government of archangels if it wore the Liberal label. He is Mr. W. R. Glvens of Kingston, Ontario, former publisher of the Kingston Whig-Standard, who speaks from his retirement and suggests to Canadians that they would be employing their time and talents to greater national advantage if they would devote less energy to the simple job of finding fault and more to the useful job of assisting the government of the day in every manner possible.

This stalwart Conservative, quite properly, is in no mood to ignore the shortcomings of the administration at Ottawa; nor does he offer any excuse for some of its actions which naturally are open to criticism—as are the actions of all governments in peace or war. Nevertheless, he reminds the people of this country of the salient fact that the government in office was elected to carry on the nation's business, that it will be in power for the next three or four years, and that "the sooner we all pull with the government, the sooner we shall get fullest and best results." Let this veteran Conservative explain his attitude in his own words:

"We have no alternative government, no group or groups to whom might be entrusted the task of taking over the burdensome all-out war effort in the event that the government should by any chance be overthrown. . . . The Conservative Party, thanks to our last two leaders, is a thing of threads and patches, pitifully attenuated and a shadow of its former self. . . . Unless, therefore, we wish to have group government, floundering along much as the government in France before the war, to the final undoing of that country, our vociferous minority might do well to stop, look and listen, and then, best of all, do a trifle more thinking."

When Mr. Glvens so expressed himself he had not read some of the remarks credited to the Conservative leader in the House of Commons on his western trip. Here is a classic example—spoken to the intelligent people of Trail, B.C., last night—from Mr. Hanson: "Where is there in Canada today a Churchill, a Roosevelt, or a Menzies? . . . Oh, God, I wish there were a Menzies in Canada. . . . That is the type of leadership King (Prime Minister Mackenzie King) is not giving." The present head of the Canadian government, of course, does not claim to be a Churchill or a Roosevelt—or even a Menzies—but we venture to suggest that when Canada's contribution to the common cause can be studied, when its value can be assessed in the light of practical achievement and in proper perspective, even Mr. Hanson may be glad he was in the public service of a country which had played so great a role in bringing the enemy to his knees. Of course the King government has made mistakes; it will make more before this war is over. But not even the difficult task which lies ahead of it will be relieved of any of its complexities by such observations as those emanating from Opposition Leader Hanson at Trail last night.

Opinion Crystallizing

IT IS SAFE TO SAY THAT THE MAJORITY of the people of the United States agree with Senator Claude Pepper of Florida when he says that "now is the time to let Tokyo know whether we mean business," because "Tokyo, unhappily, knows no language except force." Senator Clark of Oklahoma argues that "economically, I think we ought to hit Japan with all we've got. . . . Militarily, we ought not to back up an inch. . . . Politically, the people will support such a policy." Speaking of international relations generally, Senator Lee is of the opinion that if the United States maintains "a firm policy both toward Japan and Europe, we will do more to keep out of war than we would by following a vacillating policy. . . . It is evident that our so-called appeasement of Japan has been of no avail."

If Japan really wants to avoid war with the British Empire, the United States, and the Netherlands East Indies, she will pause before she incurs sufficient wrath among these anti-totalitarian nations to provoke them to follow economic with physical conflict. But the moment she demonstrates that she intends further to proceed along lines similar to those pursued by the Nazi oligarchy, she will bring war and all its dire consequences to herself, while her "co-prosperity" plans and "New-Order-for-Asia" ideal will come tumbling down about her ears. Once our neighbor is taunted too far by the men of Tokyo, she will be in the war—and in the war in the fullest sense of the term. If Hitler really wants to save himself additional difficulties, his best line obviously would be to call off Japan—if he can—before she drives Washington to extremities. But such a course is scarcely likely, as he realizes the need to deliver to the German people new "victories."

Notes

Driven to extremities by fishermen crossing his land, a farmer has placarded his property with home-made poems. Not one trespasser has been reported since.

A Consumers' Union report lists "pointers" on how to conserve motor fuel. Among them are: Avoid excessive speeding; adjust the carburetor to burn lean mixtures, suitable to the particular engine; check spark plugs for efficient operation; avoid under-inflation of tires. The latter condition not only causes tires to wear more quickly, but also causes fuel waste. Observing such rules, the motorist will serve his country and his purse simultaneously.

SACRIFICES NULLIFIED

From Halifax Herald and Mail

If motorists circumvent the law and ignore the request of their government and fritter away a shipload of gasoline on unnecessary motoring, in some circles it apparently seemed "smart." Instead, it is as much sabotage as if done by an avowed enemy—and without the excuse. It would be punishable.

If this minority persists in its practices, if it nullifies the sacrifices of those who have at heart the interests of their country and its defence, then the law should be brought to bear.

Reasonable men will not object to it; they are rationing themselves voluntarily. It is the "gadabout," the indifferent, the waster, the man who deliberately sets out to evade his responsibilities in time of war by purchasing means of storing gasoline, who must be curbed.

If a sense of shame at wrong-doing, if public opinion, if patriotism have no effect, then more drastic steps will have to be taken to make the minority comply with the wishes and the vital interests of the nation, as defined by the government.

HAPPINESS

A LEARNED WRITER in the Vancouver Sun argues that, in lowering its standard of living for the war, America will give up nothing vital to its happiness and may even be happier than ever. I suspect that the fellow was sitting in a leather easy chair, dictating to a stenographer over a highball, but there is some element of truth here.

America certainly has been very unhappy, as he says; the most unhappy continent, I should imagine, on the face of the earth, in normal times. Other continents may be more unhappy now, under actual warfare, but before the war started the melancholy of America, compared with the happiness of Europe, the reported contentment of the Chinese and the carefree lives of the African bushmen, was startling.

America has been unhappy because it saw its failure more vividly than other places. It had been given such a vast opportunity. It had mastered everything, but the only things that mattered. It had the money, the resources, the machines. It knew everything, could make everything, had seen everything and done everything. But, before the war, 10,000,000 Americans and 1,000,000 Canadians were on relief and everyone in America who had a conscience went to bed at night, if he had a good bed, with the feeling that he was profiting by an unjust society, with a sense of imminent collapse.

SPUTTER

THERE WAS all over America, before the war began, before the threat of it appeared, a terrible disillusionment, such as that which must have hit Rome about 300 A.D. Suddenly—or so it seemed to me—everybody grew tired of racing across the country in a car, dancing all night and drinking cocktails. The flaming youths of the twenties had sputtered into a dissatisfied middle age.

The Sun writer contends that America was unhappy because it built its happiness on a false foundation and its economic system also. It built on the assumption that you could not be happy without great luxury; that if you lacked luxury you were doomed to a miserable old age; that if you had luxury and the right kind of nail polish and bath soap you would certainly acquire a beautiful mate and live happily ever afterwards. At the same time the economic system was built on the assumption that everyone would buy more than he could afford, because he had to, or perish of mortification, social ostracism and hunger of the soul. When the crash came such a system crashed faster than any in the world and never did recover. Recovery has been only the false stimulus of rearmament and has nothing to do with the fundamental troubles of society.

FAIRNESS

ANYWAY, America was unhappy before the war, while other people were happy. The question now is whether it will become happier when it has to live more simply, when its luxuries are cut down. It could be happier, given certain conditions; given a fair distribution of the decreased supplies of goods. Up to now there has been little fairness in distribution, which is one of the chief causes of unhappiness, making the poor envious and the rich desperate to hang on to what they had.

Out of the war we are getting a fairer distribution—the poor have more, the rich less. But the test of the war and its effect upon our happiness must go deeper than this. The question is whether, as a result of the war, we shall get a better perspective on wealth and a better sense of real values. If we do, if we are happier with a simpler life, we may maintain it after the war and maintain also the fairer distribution of goods. But the probability is that as soon as the war is over there will be another frantic boom as everyone seeks to re-equip himself with luxuries, and we shall start all over again the dog-chasing-his-tail economics of the prewar period, the vain toiling after pleasure, the fatal belief that happiness can be bought in a store, that unhappiness is inevitable unless we buy things we can't afford.

Through the shake-down of the war we could build a better, more equitable and a less noisy, shiny and brittle system of life on this continent. We could come out of it cured of a lot of vague diseases contracted in the last 20 years from the infection of sudden wealth and dismal poverty. For all the fine, inspiring talk, there appears to be no sign of such a thing yet.

GEMS OF THOUGHT—ELEMENTS OF HAPPINESS

"Happiness is the legitimate fruitage of love and service."—Arthur S. Hardy.

"Seek happiness for its own sake, and you will not find it; seek for duty, and happiness will follow as the shadow comes with the sunshine."—Tryon Edwards.

"Pure humanity, friendship, home, the interchange of love, bring to earth a foretaste of heaven. They unite terrestrial and celestial joys, and crown them with blessings infinite."—Mary Baker Eddy.

"There is little pleasure in the world that is sincere and true beside that of doing our duty and doing good. No other is comparable to this."—Tillotson.

"An act of goodness is of itself an act of happiness. No reward coming after the event can compare with the sweet reward that went with it."—Maurice Maeterlinck.

Parallel Thoughts

For the Lord will judge his people, and he will reward himself concerning his servants.—Psalms 135:14.

Let me look to the act, and leave the end to God.—Bp. Hill.

THE CHURCH AND QUEBEC LIQUOR

L'Action Catholique (Quebec)

We fail to see any good reason for favoring liquor consumption in these distressing times.

The federal budget, necessary as it may be, is already enough to stun one. Provincial governments wisely refrain from adding to the already heavy burden of the ratepayer. Citizens are rapidly growing poorer. And Ontario, whose liquor laws are more severe than ours, is getting the tourist trade.

The profits realized from liquor consumption will be largely swallowed up by increased grants for medical, hospitalization and sanitary services which will be necessary to take care of a greater number of alcoholics.

And what is more, increased consumption of liquor is hardly consistent with the self-denial and moral restoration which should appeal to everyone who is sincerely eager for the preservation of whatever may be good in our civilization.

FINLAND'S FOLLY

RUSSIA IS FIGHTING not one invading army, but three. It is now noting that the only district where the Nazis have lately made progress is in the north, where they have the co-operation of the armies of Finland.

Finland's leaders are responsible for one of the most stupid moves yet made in this war. They have bet the national independence of their people on a Nazi victory. As week after week rolls by the Finnish people must appreciate the unhappy position into which they have been led. They must know that a German defeat in this war will now mean consequences truly tragic for Finland—unless they themselves act in time to cut themselves loose from the Nazi chariot.

Of course, the easy and natural Finnish answer to criticism of their joint attack on Russia is that they are merely taking revenge for the Russian aggression of 1939-40. But the reasons for that Russian aggression must now be as clear as crystal—even to sheer militarists like Marshal Mannerheim. In spite of the non-aggression bargain made in August, 1939, the Russians well knew that Hitler's long-range objective was the conquest of Russia—and that when it came Finland would be made either a willing or unwilling base for Nazi operations.

Their natural effort was to strengthen their own position so that such a German attack could be frustrated if and when it came. The best proof that such was the real basis for the Soviet action is evidenced by the terms of peace imposed on Finland by Russia when the latter had won the war. These terms were generous. The Soviet did not even annex the Petsamo nickel mines, which were just a stone's throw from the border, and which contained the second most plentiful supply of nickel in the whole world.

JOB FOR US.

There is a genuine friendship between the United States and Finland. The United States, therefore, has a golden opportunity to stage a peace offensive.

WHO'S TO BLAME?

From West Coast Advocate
Bloedel, Stewart and Welch have been forced to close down their night shift at Port Alberni on account of a shortage of cars, due, it has been determined, to the failure of the C.P.R. to provide an adequate barge supply between the Island and the Mainland. Apologists for the railway aver that this shortage has been caused by the withdrawal from service of two barges which failed to pass government tests of seaworthiness.

We do not think this excuse valid. The C.P.R. had no business, particularly at this time, to let its equipment get into such a state of disrepair, if at all possible to prevent it. If not possible, then the building of other barges should have been commenced months ago, to replace those they must have known would be condemned.

As early as three months ago Bloedel officials say they warned the C.P.R. of the increasing congestion due to the railway's slowness in supplying cars. That warning should have activated the company to preventive measures, unless the interests of Island points and the importance of lumber to Canada's war effort are of no consequence to its directors. Now, 150 men are out of work and war projects in the east are being held up for lack of lumber, and Port Alberni is asked to accept the excuse that it all happened because the government condemned a barge or two!

It is not good enough. The government should investigate this latest bottleneck, and do so instantly. Emphasis should be placed less on fault-finding and fixing the responsibility than on the quickest possible restoration of service. When that is done, there will be time enough to decide whether the government or the railway is to blame. But barge equipment should and must be supplied at the earliest possible moment!

Fish Oil Plant Odors Reduced

Complaints over the continuance of odors from the Cole Bros. fish liver oil extraction plant at Ogden Point were referred to the health committee by the City Council yesterday.

Dr. Richard Felton, reporting on the question, stated he had inspected the plant and found a ventilating and drench system had not been completely installed, but that odors had been greatly reduced. He thought the nuisance would be eliminated shortly.

"If the smell doesn't stop, we'll shut them up," Alderman J. A.

Worthington, health committee chairman, said.

The garbage crusher the V.M.D. made for Victoria is breaking bottles and crushing cans, but some of the smaller tins are not punctured to a point where they sink, Alderman Ed Williams reported. He thought improvements by the V.M.D. could be made to render the crusher 100 per cent efficient. A letter from the company to the council was referred to the city engineer for a report, the company expressing the view it had more than met the requirements of the specified 60-day trial period listed in the city's agreement to purchase the equipment.

The legislative committee was asked to deal with a letter from the Union of British Columbia Municipalities regarding resolutions to go before the union's convention at Harrison Hot Springs on September 23 and 24.

J. D. Stewart and R. J. M. Coates were appointed by ballot permanent members of the city fire department.

A suggestion from E. W. Worthington that one of the Oak Bay buses be routed down Richmond Road and along Fairfield to provide transportation for that area was referred to the public utilities committee. The writer suggested a bus service in that region would encourage car owners to leave their automobiles at home and conserve gasoline.

The application of the Sisters of Notre Dame des Anges for tax exemption on the Catholic Chinese Mission was referred to the finance committee for a report.

The police commission and public works committee were asked to consider a letter from Mackenzie, White and Dunsmuir, asking for restricted parking on Yates Street between Blanshard and Quadra.

Mayor Andrew McGavin's "no" echoed through the council chamber as the aldermen voted to approve payment of the last $5,000 due the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau on its 1941 grant.

The Sidney Roofing and Paper Co. Ltd. bid of $2,379 to roof the Horse Show Building with a surface carrying a 10-year guarantee was accepted.

A grant of $250 was made to the Salvation Army.

Half a dozen property sales were approved on the recommendation of the lands committee. A lot on the north of Ontario between Oswego and Montreal brought $100; another on the east of St. Charles between Fairfield and Earle, $50; two on the west of Quesnel between Topaz and Summit, $200; another on the southeast corner of Prior and Hillside, $200 on terms; one on the southwest corner of the same intersection, $300; another on Dallas Road between Ontario and Huron, $1,500; and two lots on the north of Kingston between Montreal and St. Lawrence, $4,420. The city agreed to support foreshore applications in the last instance. One exchange was authorized and purchase of three new zoning maps from the Island Blueprint Co. for $150 was approved.

A report on the results of the sewer system survey being undertaken by the provincial health department in the Greater Victoria area will be sought from Dr. G. F. Amyot by the city health committee.

Revisions in certain demolition orders and reaffirmation of others were outlined in a report from the health board.

Mayor McGavin was asked by the council to represent Victoria at today's "British Day" at Longacres Track, Seattle, as Alderman W. H. Davies reminded the council the city's request for a similar day last year had been turned down.

Mrs. Rose Wilkinson, Calgary's only woman alderman, was asked to convey the city's greetings to her civic body when she visited the hall during yesterday's council meeting. Here recuperating from a broken arm, the Calgary woman met the mayor and aldermen informally and told newsmen she thought the Victoria council meetings "too peaceful." She does not campaign for election, but headed the polls when she last put her name before the electors, she said.

J. Martland, city architect and inspector of buildings for Edmonton, president of the Alberta Association of Architects, another visitor at yesterday's meeting, increased the prairie representation.

No objection was voiced at yesterday's special meeting of the council to hear complaints against amendment of the zoning by-law covering conversion of single family homes into duplexes.

The council stood in silent tribute to the memory of the late Lyle Shields, superintendent of the Sooke Harbor water system, who was killed Saturday in a train-truck crash at Sooke. A resolution of condolence was passed to the relatives.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce request for use of a lot at the northeast corner of Pandora and Blanshard for assembly of aluminum collected in a drive scheduled September 1 was referred to the lands committee.

An invitation to the American Prison Association congress in San Francisco on August 18, 19 and 20 was turned over to the police commission.

Owing to the possibility a part of Ontario Street might be closed by the action, the council referred to the mayor, chairman of public works and lands committees, the engineer and city solicitor, consideration of a Victoria Machinery Depot application for support in consolidating lots at its Ogden Point yards. The committee was given power to act on the question for the city.

Letters relative to the dispute between rival Women's Ambulance Corps units over use of the Duchess Street fire hall were passed on to the fire wardens.

Claims by Mrs. H. Jackson and Edward D. Mitchell for chickens killed by some marauding animal were referred to the finance committee, while one from R. F. Lawrence for damage to his car tire, allegedly caused when he ran into an unlighted hole on the Island Highway, left by waterworks men, was turned over to the water board and city engineer.

A report will be sought from the city engineer on a lot used as a lane situated off Fairfield Road in the 1900 block. Naming of the "lane" was sought by a resident there.

The finance committee was asked to consider a letter from Johnson Street Bridge operators who stated they had been ignored during recent civic salary adjustments.

SERVICE 'SCREWY' SAYS WILLIAMS

"There is something absolutely screwy about our water service," Alderman Ed. Williams told the City Council yesterday afternoon as he informed the mayor and aldermen he had been unable to draw a drop from any faucet in his Queen Anne Heights home at certain periods during last week's drought.

He thought, he said, that the water had been turned off in his area, but found later that other sections of the city were supplied. His trouble arose, he explained, after the daily garden watering restrictions had been lifted for the evening. While they were enforced he could secure domestic supply, but when they were removed for the night and citizens watered lawns and gardens "only air—not even hot air" came from his taps.

He thought if there was any other way of applying restrictions it should be followed.

"Supposing a fire had occurred," he said, declaring it would have made unimpeded headway in his district.

As far as he knew the water board had not been convened to consider the question, the alderman said, adding, "If ever there was a time when the water board should have been called together it was then."

"I don't think there could be any better propaganda for Saanich wells than the action of the city last week," he said.

G. M. Irwin, city engineer and water commissioner, absent from the city when the pressure crisis occurred, stated he had been in charge he would have taken restrictive measures similar to those applied by his assistant.

REFUSED NEW MAIN

Alderman Williams' trouble, he said, was due to an old six-inch main feeding the locality. He had recommended its replacement with a 12-inch pipe at least two years ago, he added.

Alderman J. A. Worthington, water board chairman, stated the city had tried to safeguard pressure during the time the supply was interrupted by work on the Goldstream supply line. Had materials ordered earlier this year been delivered on time, the repairs would have been completed by June 15, he said. He thought a stagger system of garden watering, whereby half the population would use hoses one day and the other half the next, might be tried in the event of a recurrence of last week's trouble.

Alderman P. E. George said Alderman Williams and a few others only suffered from the city restrictions. Over 99 per cent of the populace had no complaint, he continued, adding he thought the supply pipe serving the area should be replaced.

Alderman S. H. Okell noted the acting water commissioner had consulted the mayor and water board chairman before taking action on the matter.

Alderman W. H. Davies said he and many other gardeners had lost valuable flowers and plants and Alderman B. J. Gadsden thought a survey should be made of the city service with a view to regulating restrictions on a capacity supply basis.

Alderman Worthington noted a previous city engineer had estimated costs of a new system at something over $2,000,000.

Queries Heard On Shipbuilding

Alderman Gadsden's questionnaire to the local shipbuilding industry, aimed at determining whether or not production was nearing capacity, was referred to the industrial and trades development committee by the City Council yesterday afternoon. Alderman Gadsden will be invited to sit in when the committee discusses the question.

He was not prompted by idle curiosity in raising the question, the alderman stated. There were many who were skeptical in Victoria over the soundness of the shipbuilding industry's plea for daylight saving to assist in the output of ships.

The city had been led to believe a keel would be laid on July 15, he said, in reference to one unnamed plant, but added the keel had not been laid and the ways had not yet been completed.

The council, he stated, was anxious to co-operate with the shipbuilders and, he thought, was entitled to know how things were progressing in a field very close to the hearts of the citizens.

SOMETHING WRONG

Alderman W. H. Davies was more outspoken in his criticism. Quite a number of key men, including riveters, were being let out locally and were seeking work elsewhere, he said. In Seattle aircraft production was proceeding at full speed, and Victoria, a city in a country at war, was not showing the same pace in ship construction.

"There's something wrong somewhere," he declared.

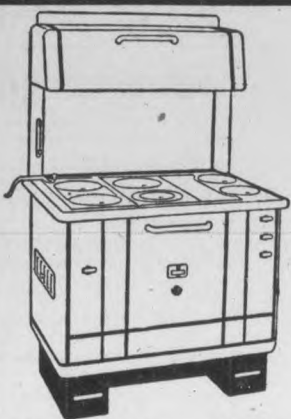

Alderman S. H. Okell thought the wording of the resolution unfortunate and suggested the city seek the information desired by having the industrial committee wait upon the shipbuilders.

"It's their business," said Alderman Ed. Williams, adding he did not think the shipbuilders in a position to give out the desired information. The resolution, he said, was "a pack of nonsense."

Alderman R. A. C. Dewar stated his only quarrel with the shipbuilders was that they had secured daylight saving time and then had failed to utilize it.

He did not like daylight saving because he did not get his proper rest, he said.

The issue was referred to the industrial committee for further action.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOUR

CANADA

CANADA'S WARTIME WAGES POLICY PROTECTS BOTH EMPLOYERS AND EMPLOYEES

Higher wages which buy less and less, breed debt and discouragement. Likewise business that expands on inflated dollars collapses like a pricked balloon.

It is in the interests of all citizens that inflation in Canada be checked and for that reason the Government is endeavouring to control price increases, rents, and profits.

Order in Council No. 7440 was designed to assist in effecting this control. It provides for a ceiling on wages and for a cost of living bonus to be paid in addition to basic wages. This bonus rises and falls at the rate of 25 cents per week for every percentage point of rise and fall in the cost of living index, except in the case of juveniles and female workers, receiving less than fifty cents an hour for whom the bonus is one per cent of their basic wage rate.

Why WORKERS Should Support P. C. 7440

Order in Council 7440 puts a ceiling on basic wage rates at a high point. This ceiling protects you against the loss of real income caused by a runaway race between wages and prices.

Corresponding controls on prices of the necessities of life are already being exercised by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, which is striving also to maintain the supply of such necessities in reasonably normal volume.

Canadian workers today have more actual buying power than ever before. Do not be tempted to sacrifice this solid position for the mirage of wartime wage increases—they lead only to debt and discouragement because prices will inevitably keep ahead of wages.

Order 7440 checks this race between wages and prices and by putting the bonus on a flat rate basis favours the lower paid workers.

All workers should support Order 7440. Get a copy of the order and study it. Discuss it with your employer and with your fellow workers.

This is the fairest possible plan for the worker, the employer and the taxpayer that has yet been devised.

Workers and employers are both called upon in the interests of Canada's war effort to observe the Order in both the spirit and the letter. This observance will benefit all Canadians.

Why EMPLOYERS Should Support P. C. 7440

When wages reach the ceiling established by the order then no more increases in basic wage rates can be granted. This ends the "bidding-up" process that is certain to result in an inflationary spiral.

Wars cannot be fought without some rise in the prices of the basic necessities of life. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board is endeavouring to keep these increases within bounds to prevent unjustifiable increases in the cost of the family budget.

The cost of living bonus provided for in P. C. 7440 is designed to take care of such price rises as cannot be avoided.

While the order requires wage adjustments in certain instances, it is believed that it will hold inflation within much narrower bounds than those of the last war.

The order helps to preserve the high morale of workers because they know that all are being treated equally. This removes a cause of labour friction.

N. A. McLARTY,

Minister of Labour

Maud Slye's Love of Nature Led Her to Cancer Fight

CHICAGO—Some 60 years ago in a Cedar Rapids, Iowa, garden, a tiny girl began picking fluffy caterpillars from berry bushes and grapevines—to the horror of her mother.

"But," the child protested, "they turn into butterflies, and I want to see how they do it."

This inquiring spirit gave the first impetus to the scientific career of Maud Slye, internationally-known investigator of the hereditary factor in cancer—a career marked by more than 30 years of painstaking research with 150,000 mice in her laboratory at the University of Chicago.

Now white-haired and 62, Miss Slye is associate professor of pathology and staff fellow of the Otto S. A. Prague Memorial Institute.

The caterpillar incident illustrates her most fundamental interest in life—a love of nature that led her to prefer science to art as a life career.

Maud Slye came to the university when she was 17 with $40 in her pockets, a letter of introduction and a determination to become a scientist. She supported herself in college by acting as secretary to the late William Rainey Harper, first president of the university.

Now she devotes all her working hours to research. Time was when, working over her experimental mice, she went to sleep standing on her feet, and—

"There were times when feeding the mice meant that I had but one meal a day—and that from a box of prepared oatmeal."

Miss Slye believes that her research has established that the age at which cancer will arise has a hereditary control factor.

After long years of keeping family records of cancer occurrence among mice, she has urged that states and cities keep similar records for human beings.

"If we could establish the age at which cancer will arise in human susceptibles as we have done with mice," she explains, "many cases could be prevented or caught in time."

Listening to good music is Miss Slye's chief diversion, although she finds time to write poetry, and to care for two dogs, a turtle and a flower garden as well as her mice.

Changing of Posts by Sisters of St. Ann Is Announced

Changes in the administrative and teaching staffs of both St. Ann's Academy and St. Joseph's Hospital were announced at the academy's annual old pupils' reunion. A number of Sisters who were formerly here will return.

Miss Flora Hamilton Burns, past president of the academy alumnae, read a farewell address to Sister Mary Francis, former superior of the convent, who has been transferred to New Westminster.

The new superior, Sister Mary Ludovic, formerly of Kamloops, was introduced by Sister Mary Theodore. Sister Mary Mildred, one-time superior of St. Joseph's Hospital, has been appointed mother provincial of all the convents of British Columbia, Alaska and Washington. Sister Mary Mark, former provincial, has been transferred to the Kamloops convent. Sister Mary Kathleen was appointed superior of St. Joseph's Hospital, replacing Sister Mary Alfreda.

Among the academy teaching staff, Sister Mary Artemia, head of the commercial department, is being transferred to New Westminster, and Sister Mary Patricia will take her place.

Miss Geraldine Murray, president of the alumnae, read the annual report, and expressed the old pupils' regret at parting with so many of their friends among the sisters, while they welcomed the newcomers.

MUSICAL PROGRAM

Present-day pupils gave the musical program which opened with the singing by the assembly of the school song and closed with the recitation of the school pledge. Other numbers included vocal solos by Loyola Edwards and Mary Armitage, accompanied by Betty Hickey and Dorothy Harding, piano solos.

Tea was served in the recreation room, gay with summer flowers. The tea table, which was covered with a lace cloth, was centred with a beautiful arrangement of gladioli, larkspur and clarkia. Geraldine Murray, Flora Hamilton Burns, Wendah Scott and Mrs. C. Rivers poured tea during the afternoon, and assisting with the serving were members of this year's graduating class.

Among the many old pupils was Mrs. Blizzard (nee Ocken-den), from Seattle, who for the past 24 years has attended the reunion annually.

Preserving Will Aid War Effort

OTTAWA—"Announcement by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board that large stocks of sugar are available for preserving will give Canadian housewives a definite opportunity to help in the war effort," Miss L. C. Pepper, Consumer Service section chief, Agriculture Department, said today.

"Close to $5,000,000 worth of Canadian commercially canned fruits, fruit pulps and vegetables are being shipped to Great Britain this year, and Canadian women can ensure that no shortages occur by seeing to it that no fruit and vegetables go to waste."

"Not all fruits and vegetables are most economically and safely preserved at home," cautioned Miss Pepper, and "a list of the most nutritive fruits and vegetables for home canning, together with recipes, can be obtained by writing to the Publicity and Extension Division, Agriculture Department, Ottawa."

Retain Flavor In Fried Fish

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Fish, one of our most abundant foods, can be used in the menu in place of meat. It is an excellent protein, and if people use more of it, fish can be made one of our cheapest sources of high-grade protein.

Like all good cooks, you probably keep dozens of favorite fish recipes tucked away in your bag of cooking tricks, but have you learned the real secret for preparing fish in such a way that all the delicate flavor is retained? First, do not overlook them, and, secondly, if you plan to deep-fry them, use a pure, bland salad oil—nothing strongly flavored, because you don't want your fish to taste of the fat in which they're fried.

French Fried Fish Fillets

Desired number and kind of fish fillets, 1 egg, well beaten, with 1 tablespoon water, crumbs, corn meal, flour or potato meal, salt, pepper, bland salad oil for frying.

Wash fillets in cold water, drain on absorbent paper. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Dip first in dry coating (crumbs or other if preferred) then in egg mixture and again in dry coating. Place in deep salad oil—375 to 385 degrees F., or hot enough to brown a 1-inch cube of bread in 40 to 50 seconds.

Fish Chowder

One pint milk made of ½ cup dry skim milk and 1 pint water, 1½ pounds fresh haddock or other fish, or 1 pound can salmon, 2 cups diced potatoes, 1 cup diced carrots, 1 pint water, ½ cup diced salt pork, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, 2 tablespoons flour, salt and pepper.

Cut the fish into small pieces and remove the bones and skin. If using raw fish, cook it and the potatoes and carrots in the water for 15 minutes. Fry the salt pork until crisp, remove from the fat, cook the onion in the fat for a few minutes, add the flour, stir until well blended, and add the milk. Add this mixture to the cooked vegetables and the cooked fish or canned salmon. Simmer 10 minutes longer, stirring frequently. Add the salt pork and season to taste with salt and pepper.

Tomorrow's Menu

Breakfast: Blackberries, shredded wheat, top milk, raisin toast, coffee, milk.

Luncheon: Tuna, celery and green pepper salad enriched bread sandwiches, cheese, bananas, tea, milk.

Dinner: French fried fish fillets, mashed potatoes, broiled tomatoes, watercress salad, lemon gelatin, custard sauce, coffee, milk.

Woman Scientist to Study Diet Mystery

NEW YORK (AP) — A woman scientist has undertaken to solve one of the world's dietary mysteries—how isolated Newfoundland families have subsisted for generations on dried fish and potatoes, a menu almost totally lacking in vitamins.

To answer that question the New York Post-graduate Hospital, a division of Columbia University, has dispatched one of its chief technicians, Mississippi-born Ellen McDevitt, 35, for a year's study.

In addition to a large supply of synthetic crystalline vitamins, Miss McDevitt has taken to her base at Norris Point Hospital at Bonne Bay, Nfld., portable chemical testing equipment with which to analyze the condition of the inhabitants before and after consuming vitamin concentrates. The study will also record the effects of vitamin deficiency on the teeth, eyes, body structure, reproductive abilities and other glandular activities.

In the recent consignment of nearly 150 Bundles for Britain, dispatched to Victoria from Salt Spring Island, 130 were gathered by the Ganges Women's Institute.

People in the News

Easily Fooled

Two confidence men stole $348 from MRS. WILLIAM HOFFMAN, cafe proprietress, in London, Ont.

One of the men entered her cafe, she said, and told a story of how he had been entrusted with $8,000 "conscience money" by a wealthy British Columbia man. He was to distribute the money among "the sick, maimed and blind."

At this point, Mrs. Hoffman said, he showed her $2,000 which he carried in his handkerchief. An accomplice, feigning to be a well-wishing stranger, told the first man that he should be more careful with his money.

He agreed and asked Mrs. Hoffman if he might leave his money in her store. He supposedly placed the $2,000 in a metal box in which she had $348. When she looked in the box later, her $348 was gone, and what was supposed to be the $2,000 was nothing but a wad of old paper.

Canada Lackadaisical Says John L. Lewis

JOHN L. LEWIS, before a U.S. House committee, opposed the St. Lawrence Seaway project.

Lewis said he was doubtful that Canada would ever have to pay her full share of the St. Lawrence project cost. Referring to statement by previous witnesses that the seaway and power project was essential to national defence, Lewis said:

"Canada is in the war, but she is lackadaisical about this. Canada is at war, yet she has failed to adopt conscription. We are at peace and we have conscription."

"I am on record as favoring any steps necessary to make this country impregnable. But I don't think giving money to Canada to help build their waterway will be of any help to America. I think it will be a menace, economically at least."

'Wolves of War'

SENATOR BURTON WHEELER declared in Washington War Secretary Henry Stimson's recent statement that his (Wheeler's) activities approached treason was "part of a program to terrify the American people into submission—to make them accept participation in a foreign war."

Taking the Senate floor on a point of personal privilege, the Montana isolationist declared that after Stimson's statement President Roosevelt "joined the wolves of war in their slanders attack" against him.

Stimson's statement was made after two men in United States army camps had received cards from Wheeler urging them to write President Roosevelt that they did not want the United States to participate in the European war.

'Just Another Baby'

MRS. PAUL KOSAK, specialist in child education at Columbia University, has returned from South America where she made a study of the world's youngest mother, Lina Medina, Peruvian Indian who gave birth to a son at the age of five years.

Mrs. Kosak gave a series of intelligence tests to the young mother and said that on the basis of this study she has no doubt the child's age was correctly given.

Lina, she said, was above normal in intelligence and the boy, now two years old, was perfectly normal and "really better developed than the average Mestiza, or Spanish Indian child."

"She thinks of the child as a baby brother and so does the rest of her family," Mrs. Kosak said. "To them the child is just another baby."

'Perils Confront Us'

The United States Secretary of the Navy, FRANK KNOX: "If the time ever comes when we Americans are unwilling to fight to preserve the freedoms we have inherited, those freedoms will be destroyed and taken from us by a stronger breed of men."

Calling for a decision on the "perils which confront us," he said: "There are those in this country who think we can solve these problems by refusing to face them. That is precisely what happened to a dozen countries in Europe who have lost their liberties. The need is not only for a decision to take every possible measure that can be taken to prevent this fate overtaking us, but the need is for a decision now—a decision that, come what may, we shall resist to the uttermost any and every assault that is made upon us, and we will make due preparations to meet any and every threat of force that is pointed in our direction."

'Tremendous Accomplishment'

W. W. REYNOLDS, Montreal, president of the Canadian Association of Advertising Agencies, said in Saint John, although hundreds of thousands of Canadians were under arms or serving otherwise in the war effort, a "tremendous accomplishment" considering Canada's small population, "no appreciable disturbance is apparent in the domestic economy of the country."

"Because there is not more disturbance, some people have taken it as an indication that not enough is being done. But the traveling business man whose calls take him to all parts of the country appreciates the extent of the war effort and marvels at what has been accomplished without upsetting the country's economy."

English Want Onions

COL. R. J. MANION, former Conservative leader who recently studied operations overseas of the auxiliary services to the armed forces, said in Ottawa in a service club address there was more complaining about lack of onions in Britain than over enemy bombings.

Pola Negri Weeps

POLA NEGRI was finally admitted entry into the United States when she arrived from Lisbon on the American Export liner Excalibur. Immigration officials first said her papers were not in order, but temporary bars were dropped and the actress was allowed to leave Ellis Island, with permission for permanent residence in the United States.

The 41-year-old beauty of the silent screen wept bitterly when immigration officials told her she had failed to renew the return permit given her when she left six years ago.

Miss Negri, who said she had come to accept a film offer, said she did not know it was necessary to renew the permit each year.

Earlier she told newsmen she had been living with her mother in a villa on the French Riviera at St. Jean, Cap Ferrat.

Bomb for Seattle

MAYOR EARL MILLIKIN of Seattle has received a grim gift, an unexploded incendiary bomb, sent him by Sir George H. Wilkinson, Lord Mayor of London. The Lord Mayor's note suggested it as a memento for Seattle's City Hall in appreciation of the "good will of American citizens." Its detonator and operating mechanism had been removed.

Didn't Know Mother

Separated from his mother for one year, three-year-old SIMON CHRISTOPHER DEW, one of Canada's war guests, was unable to recognize her when they were reunited in Toronto.

The mother, Mrs. Peter Dew, wife of a major in the Royal Engineers, rushed to greet her child upon her arrival from England. He did not know her.

"You're my mummy?" he asked. "Where did you come from, mummy?"

"From England," she replied. "I come from England, too," he said.

Mrs. Dew is the former Miss Dorothy Wood, a graduate of the University of Toronto.

Common Cause

Determination to make current hostilities "the war to end all wars," was urged by H. H. KUNG, vice-premier and Finance Minister, in a broadcast to the United States from Chungking. Kung reaffirmed confidence in China's ultimate victory over Japan and said Chinese were glad "America has now recognized the fact China is her first line of defence in the Pacific."

"We have a common cause," he said, "and a common enemy."

Escaped From Nazis

Two British-American ambulance drivers who escaped from German guards by diving from a train window and tramping four days through France on a diet of bread and water have returned to the United States and promptly volunteered for service in Africa with another corps unit.

Within an hour after they arrived aboard the American export liner Excalibur the two—James W. Stewart, 35, of Oneonta, N.Y., and Thomas O. Greenough, 30, of Proffit, Va.—had signed up to sail for Suez August 20 to serve with Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Free French Forces.

Gracie Unperturbed

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (CP)—Gracie Fields was uninjured and unperturbed yesterday by the forced landing here of a Royal Air Force bomber carrying her to a concert for the R.A.F. operational force in east Scotland. The comedy singer continued by car and gave her third concert of the day.

DUKE WITH CANADIAN NURSES—Canada's great contribution to the empire's war effort, the Commonwealth air training plan, is to undergo a royal inspection soon, when the Duke of Kent, who arrived in Ottawa today, will spend a month studying its operations from coast to coast. A group captain in the R.A.F., the Duke has seen many graduates of the scheme in England. He volunteered to make the journey, and the King promptly gave approval, it was announced in London. The Kents already are popular with Canadians overseas for their numerous visits to training camps and to Canadians in hospital. Above, the Duke is shown on a recent visit to a new Canadian military hospital, with his two children, Prince Edward and Princess Alexandra.

Randall Race Bid Changes Studied

Consideration of an agreement between the city and the Colwood Park Association Limited, whereby the association would lease the Willows Park for racing purposes on payment of $2,000 a year, plus one-quarter of one per cent of all wagers, was tabled by the city finance committee late yesterday for a further check by the city solicitor.

The agreement negotiated largely by Mayor Andrew McGavin, would give the association a five-year hold on the track, starting December 1 this year and ending November 30, 1946, with the option of a five-year renewal on the same terms.

The agreement, signed by S. W. Randall for the Colwood Park Association Ltd., was accompanied by a $2,000 cheque covering payment of the charges for the last year of operations.

The draft differed slightly from the original drawn up by the city.

A recommendation to have that money spent on stable repairs was advanced to the finance committee.

Payment of the $2,000 would be made each year on the opening day of racing, while the percentage of wagering would be handed to the city within 15 days of the close of the meet, according to the agreement.

RACE IN FAIR WEEK

Racing would be staged annually during fair week. If, through the fault of the association, meets were not staged at that time the racing interests would pay a forfeit of $500 for losses that would arise from the collections at the outer gate. In the event of racing being eliminated through no fault of the association during any year in the contract, the association would be granted an extension of a year under the terms.

The racing association agrees to keep the grandstand, paddock, stables and other buildings and fences used for racing purposes in good repair and to pay for the policing of the betting ring. It would also keep the track in good condition and erect additional fencing at the southwest corner for the better protection of the public.

It would, where possible, employ qualified persons resident in Victoria, would pay costs of necessary drainage which would be carried on to the satisfaction of the city engineer and would make no structural alterations or removals without the consent of the corporation.

PARI-MUTUEL BETTING

The association undertakes to operate betting under the approved pari-mutuel system, subject to check by the city at any time.

The association also undertakes to provide approved public liability insurance in the amounts of $25,000 for one person and $250,000 for one accident and for property damage of $5,000. The corporation would pay $25 towards the annual premium to cover the part of the year when racing is not being held.

The city would use any insurance from a fire-damaged building for reconstruction of such structure.

Termination clauses are also covered in the agreement.

NOT MUCH CUT IN GAS YET

Victoria motorists may be conserving some gasoline in response to Ottawa's appeal, but nothing even approaching the 50 per cent reduction in private use urged by Oil Controller George R. Cottrell.

This seemed to be the general estimate today after the first gasless Sunday had passed.

It was perhaps, an unfair day to judge, because Sunday's bright weather attracted the usual thousands to beaches and lakes around the city, and there did not appear to be much diminution in the usual Sunday week-end summer traffic.

Practically all gasoline stations did a roaring business on Saturday as people filled up to carry themselves over Sunday. One station reported more sales on Saturday than it usually does in the two days. Others reported Saturday's business much bigger than usual, although below the customary two-day total.

One of the largest stations in town conceded that sales for the first week of the conservation order were definitely down.

COTTRELL'S WARNING

In Toronto today G. R. Cottrell, the federal oil controller, said he was satisfied with the slight reduction in week-end traffic, but warned motorists must realize "the gasoline isn't here and we can't get it."

However, he said, "some persons seem to think the restrictions don't apply to them, that they can go running around burning up fuel as they did before. . . . The regulations can't prevent people using gasoline. It is up to the people how this thing works out. If what we are doing doesn't reduce consumption of gasoline, something else will have to be done."

Cottrell said charges by an American tourist that he was charged $10 for five gallons of gasoline at North Bay, Ont., after the closing time, will be investigated.

Saanich Veterans Attend Service

Ex-servicemen of Saanich attended an annual Decoration Day service on Sunday under the auspices of the North Saanich branch of the Canadian Legion.

A parade of ex-servicemen was held from Patricia Bay service station to Holy Trinity churchyard, where flowers had been placed on the graves of 16 veterans. The band of the Royal Canadian Air Force, by permission of Wing Commander W. J. Plant, headed the parade.

Rev. T. R. Lancaster, padre of the branch, conducted the service. He was assisted by the Rev. Warren N. Turner, of South Saanich, and Flt.-Leut. Rev. H. S. MacDonald, R.C.A.F.

The address was delivered by Capt. A. Bishlager, senior naval chaplain of the district.

Afternoon tea was served later by the Women's Auxiliary to the North Saanich branch on the lawn of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Jones.

Discipline For A.T.S.

LONDON—Girls in the Auxiliary Territorial Service are now subject to military discipline. Generally speaking, A.T.S. officers have about half the powers an officer commanding a corresponding army unit has in minor cases.

LIKE SO MANY exhibition golf matches Saturday's appearance of Freddy Wood and Stan Leonard, representing the west, against Stan Horne and Jules Huot, noted eastern experts, failed to produce the calibre of play expected. Wood, the blond-thatched fireball of Vancouver, rescued some prestige for the pros but at the exhibition did not uncoil as good golf as one might see in any good amateur final.

Whole trouble of such exhibitions is that the pros fail to show their stuff without the pressure of competition. When the chips are down and prize money is at stake they are carried to the heights that often produces brilliant play. True there is the incentive to win an exhibition but that so often proves not enough. When every shot may mean the difference of several hundred bucks then the lads get down to serious business.

We, along with the majority of the gallery, did not appreciate the slow manner in which Saturday's match was run off. Professionals of the calibre of these four should certainly not take well over three hours to play 18 holes. True, Horne and Huot were playing the course for the first time, but don't forget they are players who have been on tour several times with the United States brigade and have played strange courses times innumerable. A strange layout means nothing to them. And anyway most of the time was wasted on the greens. The boys sure took their time lining up putts and then failed to drop most of them.

Both Horne and Huot had praise for the Oak Bay links, with the exception of the greens which they figured too fast. "Your grass is clipped much shorter than we are used to," Horne stated. After playing the seventh hole Horne declared: "That's the finest short hole I have ever played." That means something coming from a golfer who has looked over some of the finest links in Canada and the United States.

When Jimmy Dykes, fiery manager of the Chicago White Sox ball club, was suspended recently after a run-in with the umpires, he got himself a lot of publicity. But now we hear of how Dykes was hardly back in his home park before he was charging the umps again.

In the first half of the double-header with the New York Yankees, Mike Tresh made no play on Spud Chandler's bunt, believing it had rolled foul. Umpire George Pipgras ruled otherwise, and Dykes let him have it in mid-season form.

More than 50,000 customers, Chicago's largest baseball turnout in eight years, loved it.

Dykes let the umpires know just how he felt on another occasion, and plainly intends to go right on earning his $20,000 a year by seeing that the Pale Horse get none the worst of it.

There may be a favorable reaction to the brief ban on Dykes. The old third baseman won't stop talking.

He isn't afraid to point out the umpires' mistakes. Perhaps league president Will Harridge and his umpire-in-chief, Tommy Connolly, will get checking up on some of their hired hands in blue. That wouldn't do any harm.

"When Pipgras chased Tresh the other afternoon after a couple of squawks about balls and strikes," says Dykes, "Muddy Ruel, running the club during my absence, asked for an explanation. 'I couldn't get along with your catcher,' spouted Pipgras. 'Get somebody else.'"

"How's that for an explanation, and since when has a catcher had to get along with an umpire?"

"Tommy Turner was under the stands the other day smoking a cigarette while the umpire was getting a good riding from Ed Smith. Suddenly the umpire turned to our bench, and ho! lered: 'You're out, Turner, you're out!'"

"I came out of the dugout and said: 'I'm sorry, Mr. Umpire, but Turner is under the stands smoking a cigarette.'"

"The umpire turned as red as Gabby Hartnett. He was about to blow up like his chest protector when I came to his rescue."

"I'll get Tommy for you if you want him," I said, "but he can't come out here smoking a cigarette."

"I have seen too much of him!" roared the umpire. "Get him out of here, cigarette and all!" Jimmy Dykes offers this as evidence that umpires sometimes make guesses stick.

Alerts Meet Jokers Plays Tonight

The Little & Taylor Challenge Trophy comes off the shelf this evening, gets a thorough dusting and takes a front row seat out at the boxla wars to obtain a glimpse of whom its new owner may be.

Yes, tonight's the night when the Alerts and Jokers play the first game of a three-contest series, winner to meet the Bays and the winner of that series to receive the jewelry shop silverware in recognition of civic superiority.

The battle which starts at 8.30 has all the earmarks of a brisk and thrilling encounter, with supporters of both sides advancing reams of reasons why their particular choice should win.

The Alerts, many claim, should come out on top. The reasons put forth are that the red-shirted lads pushed the Jokers in the dark old closet in every game this year except one. Another reason, and it seems quite valid, is that the team will be strengthened by the return of Andy Ovcharick and by the presence of Jim Perry, the Nanaimo go-getter. The Jokers have, as yet, to play against the latter rubber slinger. And last but far from least, Herbie Thompson, the diminutive defenceman with the educated hip, will probably be in uniform for his second game of the season with Harry Sargison's lads.

The Jokers represent without question the most improved aggregation of lacrosse exponents in the city this year. On top of this, Gus Munro has been hustling around and this evening will probably have two men back who have been on the injured list for the past few games—Keith Ludbrook and Ed Pridham. With these men back in battle dress, and if Sam Andrews and Hughie Milne are able to escape duty with the navy this evening, things will be definitely interesting.

On the coaching bench will be George "Porky" Andrews, an athlete of brains and versatility, who was forced to drop from the Joker playing roster earlier in the season because of a leg injury. He will be taking the place of Jimmy Smith, who is in hospital.

In the preliminary Douglas Tire and Owl Drug will be fighting for the right to meet McLean's Bakery. This game starts at 7.

Eagles Cinch First Position

Marking up their sixth victory in seven starts at the expense of Pitzer & Nex, 10 to 8, Eagles last night cinched first place in the city championship baseball campaign. Eagles will gain a bye in the playoffs, with the Tillicum Athletics and Pitzer & Nex battling for the right to engage the lodgemen in the final.

Eagles were forced to score single runs in the eighth and ninth innings to whip Pitzer & Nex. The teams engaged in one of those long, slow affairs, taking well over two hours to complete their evening's work. Each club used a pair of hurlers, Stan Curry and Russ Richardson handling the mound duties for the Eagles and Lorne Harper and Wilf Shouldice appearing for the gasmen.

Highlight of the exhibition was the stick work of Ritchie Nicol, right fielder of Pitzer & Nex. In addition to smacking a home run over the centre field fence, Nicol contributed a three-bagger and a single. Jack Stratton topped the Eagles at the plate with three for five, including a double.

Short score: R. H. E. Eagles.....10 12 6 Pitzer & Nex.....8 10 4 Batteries—Curry, Richardson and Bridgewood; Harper, Shouldice and Woodford.

City Tennis Tournament Scheduled

Victoria's largest and most important tennis event of the season, the city championships, will get under way on the 12 courts of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club, starting Monday, August 11. Finals will be held Saturday, August 23.

Revived about six years ago, after the demise of the pioneer Kingston Street Club, this event has appealed more to the local players than the provincial championships, which have again been dropped owing to war conditions. Much of the popularity is due to the players getting better value because of the flights which are run in conjunction with the championship events. Players defeated in the first two rounds of any event form the first flight and the winners are awarded prizes. As an added attraction this year the Victoria Club will hold a special mixed handicap event, providing there are sufficient entries. Daylight saving will be a big help to the managers of the tournament as the extra hour will permit one more draw per night, or roughly eight matches.

Local clubs will be canvassed shortly for entries and players intending to enter will be invited to have one day's play on the courts before the start of the tournament. Saturday, August 9, or the following Sunday will be general days for the competitors to practice.

Players are warned that the default rule will be strictly adhered to. Exemptions can be secured for single days, but once the match is drawn and appears in the daily papers, the match must be played as billed.

DEFENDING CHAMPIONS

Carl Brand and Paula Merrix of the Victoria club were the winners of the men's and women's singles last year. Whether they will enter again is not known. Miss Merrix has just arrived for her annual vacation from California and states she has not been playing much. Brand may expect competition from several sources as there are one or two fine players at Royal Roads. Jimmy Forsythe, the well-known badminton player, is at the Gordon Head Camp, and Graham Verley, former high-ranking Canadian, is at the Patricia Bay station. Besides these men there is Henry Bennett, who won the South Cowichan tournament.

Both Miss Merrix and Brand figured in the other events, almost creating a monopoly last year. Paula paired with Stan Curry to win the mixed, and with Anna Peden took the women's doubles. Eric McCallum helped Brand win the men's doubles. Walter Knotts won the 1940 men's flight final, and another Victoria club player, Gladys McCall, won the women's flight singles. Cam Brown and Jack Wilkinson of C.P.R. won the men's flight doubles.

Entries for the tournament can be made at any of the following clubs: C.P.R., Hillcrest, Armadale, B.C. Electric and Victoria. Entries will close at 6 Saturday, August 9. Additional information can be obtained from Ross (Bud) Hocking, at Hocking & Forbes, E2342.

Quart of Water From Big Leaf of Traveler's Tree

If the island of Madagascar could be lifted from the Indian Ocean and placed on this continent, it would reach from New York to Chicago, or from Ottawa, Ont., to South Carolina.

That gives an idea of the size of the big island east of Africa. It has an area close to 250,000 square miles.

Madagascar has strange kinds of plant life. There are large tree-ferns, also silk bushes and traveler's trees.

Taking water from traveler's tree.

The traveler's tree has long leaves which grow from the top of the trunk. Usually there are from 15 to 30 of these leaves, each from eight to 10 feet long. They make the tree look something like a fan of huge size.

Natives of the island use the leaves in roofing their homes, and also weave them into mats. The most interesting thing about the tree, however, is its water supply. At the base of each leaf is a place from which water will run when a cut is made. One leaf may supply as much as a quart of water.

Speaking of water, I must mention the "rain-tree" of Madagascar. Even on a very dry day, a person can go under it and feel a shower of a sort.

"What brings the shower?" we may ask. The question has been answered. On the thousands of tiny leaves of the rain tree, insects of a certain kind are found. From these insects come small drops of a water-like liquid, making a constant misty downpour.

"The silk" bushes of this island have seed pods on the order of those of milkweeds. After the pods burst open, the seeds in silken wrappings are blown about by the breeze. Each seed has about an inch of "silk" around it. The fibres can be gathered and woven into a fine, soft cloth of yellow color.

Not so pleasant is the "agy" vine of Madagascar. It has pods which are covered with poison needles, each about one-fourth of an inch long. If a person strikes his hand against one of the pods, the needles come out like quills from the body of a porcupine.

A minister named William Montgomery had a painful time when he ran into some agy vines while walking through a dense jungle. "My hands seemed on fire," he reported, "and my face and head burned as if they were being held against a red-hot stove. When I struggled back to camp, my men saw what had happened to me. They rushed to the river and got all the sand and mud they could carry. This they rubbed over me, and soon the stinging, poison hairs came out."

HOROSCOPE

JULY 30

Adverse aspects rule today. Jealousy and sarcasm may cause trouble. Violating rules may bring severe punishment. The seers caution men and women that suspicion is apt to spoil either domestic or business projects at this time.

London astrologers foresee much intrigue and espionage in the countries under Nazi rule. Toward fall these countries may begin to reorganize secretly.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of opportunity. Children born on this day may be carefree and extravagant.

Junior Boys Leave For Y.M.C.A. Camp

Fifty-five boys between the ages of 10 and 12 stormed the Y.M.C.A. Camp Thunderbird at Glanz Lake this afternoon, the start of a 10-day holiday. The older boys, between the ages of 12 and 17, have just concluded a two-week stay at the Sooke camp.

Vivian Shoemaker, boys' secretary for the "Y," stated that this year's summer camp was one of the most successful yet organized by the Victoria young men's organization.

Camp Thunderbird offers a holiday of complete enjoyment for the boys, having included in the itinerary a schedule of sports and educational work.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Do you think married people are selfish in wanting to live by themselves? I am an only child. My father died over a year ago and my mother came to live with my husband and me, although she owns her own home and is financially independent. At the time she was in such a mental state that the only thing to do was to have her come with us until she could begin to take up new interests in life. Now over a year has gone by, and my mother has adjusted herself, and my husband thinks she should take a place of her own and let us live alone, but she sees no reason why she can't live with us and says we are selfish in not wanting her. My husband says she is the selfish one and that the only way she will ever leave us is for us to sell our home and break up house-keeping. What do you think? A WIFE AND DAUGHTER.

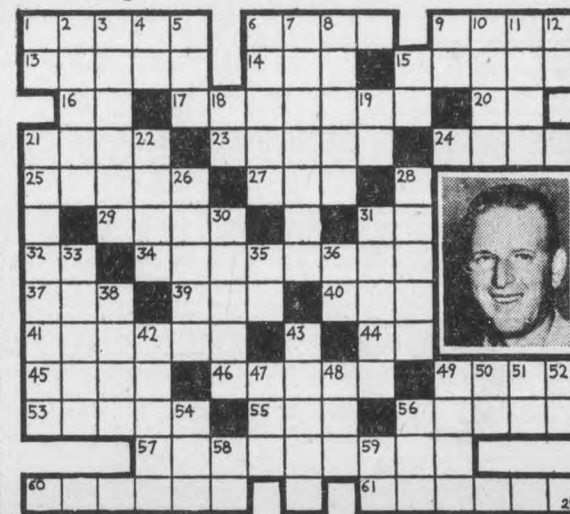

Answer: Your mother is the selfish one. It is perfectly natural and right that you and your husband should want your home to yourselves, without any third party in it, and she should recognize that and not force you to the pain and humiliation of forcibly turning her out of doors in order to get rid of her.

The initiative in every such situation should be taken by the mother. She should not put her children on the spot by compelling them to tell her that they do not wish her to live with them, because that makes them seem ungrateful and undutiful and as if they were lacking in affection for her, when such is not the case.

Every woman should remember that when she married she did not want her mother-in-law to come and live with her. She did not want any other woman sitting around listening to every word she and her husband said to each other, and blocking all of the little confidential talk that make a husband and wife really one. She didn't want any older woman interfering in everything she did and telling how she always boiled potatoes or made pies.

And, remembering these things, every mother should say to her children: "Now I'll come and live near you and visit you, but I won't live with you. I want my freedom, too, and feel that I'll be happier by myself." DOROTHY DIX.

Data Studied For Tax Deal

A financial expert engaged by the Dominion government has completed a study here of details on British Columbia's income tax position as a basis for the province turning over its income tax collection to the Dominion, Finance Minister John Hart said today.

He was sent out here after the province has agreed to vacate the income tax field for duration of the war in lieu of a fixed grant based on last year's collections.

Mr. Hart said the survey by Ottawa's expert was preliminary to discussions of policy which will take place at the federal government's convenience. When the province agreed to suspend income taxes the details were not settled. They remain to be worked out.

The finance minister indicated British Columbia will have one or two provisos to discuss with Ottawa before the deal is finally settled, such as a clause to protect the treasury from devaluation of its fixed income tax return in the event of inflationary tendencies. Other matters include the exact amount of the annual grant B.C. is to receive (this has been roughly estimated at $12,600,000), and whether or not the mineral tax, paid by some mining companies in lieu of income tax, is included in the deal.

B.C. EXPERIMENTS WITH SOYA BEANS

Experimental planting of soya beans and safflower for the production of vegetable oil to substitute for oils that now have to be imported are being conducted in British Columbia this year.

Approximately 500 pounds of soya bean seed has been planted in the Okanagan and Creston areas, the Department of Agriculture said today.

Tests with soya beans have been carried out for some years and they show that two crops a year may be possible in the interior districts.

The safflower experiments are being conducted at the experimental farm at Agassiz. Safflower is an oil-bearing plant.

Art

At the Victoria Photographic Association's summer exhibition, which opened Monday at 640 Fort Street and will run until Saturday, about 90 photographs are being shown by members who range from professional and skilled amateurs to just ordinary camera enthusiasts.

The work of the professionals is to be favorably compared with any seen anywhere, but almost all have some particular quality to commend them and to atone for any lack of technique.

There is good variety of subject matter, but an absence of interior studies and a scarcity of still-life. The subjects comprise mainly sea and landscapes, portraits, architecture, nudes, character studies and a few cross-sections of life here and abroad.

Landscapes are in the majority and, for the most part, are well-chosen and interesting. We liked "Promise," by Irvine Dawson, for its contrast and its soft yet clear detail. Well-titled, with its suggestion of harvest and the coming day, this picture has atmosphere and seems literally to bathe one in the late autumn sunshine.

Another beautiful study is "Tranquility," by A. C. H. Dean, A.R.P.S., the quality of which is almost that of a painting. There is a richness of detail and texture and a fine, yet subtle range of tone in clouds, water and foliage. As a composition alone, this is one of the finest pictures in the exhibition.

Composition seems to be the chief weakness in a number of pictures; a fault which could have been obviated in some instances by cutting the print differently. "Classification," for instance, by A. L. Meugens, would have been greatly improved by being cut so as to eliminate confusing and meaningless objects. On the other hand, "Young Gulls," by A. L. Meugens, is so cut as to include only that which is necessary to tell the story.

There are a number of very excellent portraits, among them a charming head of a young girl by Ken McAllister and several by H. G. Cox, of which "Shan Tung," a lively, original study of a Chinese gardener is the most compelling. This is contrasted to a carefully posed, rather charming full-length portrait of a girl which is injured by a cut-up background of a paneled wall.

W. H. Squires, who is remarkable for his fine character studies, is showing two, "Arrriet" and "The Psychologist," the latter possessing practically every quality, both photographic and pictorial, which it is possible to combine in one picture. As well as these, Mr. Squires has "Joe Louis," a fine study of a dog's head and three decorative floral subjects.

A strong dramatic feeling missing in a number of the prints was noticeably present in "Margin of New Day" by Ken McAllister, in which early light etches a figure against the dark background of shore and sea. An interesting sea picture from a point of view of design, is "Flowing Tide," a rhythmic pattern of rocks and foaming water. We also liked "Perplexed" by S. C. Ardvidson, a natural, characterful study of Checkers in Stanley Park; a nameless picture, No. 86, Gamon, which, nevertheless, told vividly the story of man's penetration into the wild; a group of BEATTIE — Mrs. Emma Beattie, widow of the late William Beattie, former resident of this city, passed away at the home of her brother, Mr. Arthur Grimes, Aylmer East, Quebec, on Monday, July 21, in her 85th year.

She is survived by three brothers in the east, also three step-daughters, Mrs. H. E. Hill of Vancouver, Mrs. A. T. Glabe of Seattle, and Miss Mildred Beattie of Victoria. Interment took place in the east.

ACHESON — Funeral services for Mrs. Mary E. Acheson, 84, mother of Mrs. Dewitt (Lila Acheson) Wallace and Dr. Barclay Acheson, editors of the Readers' Digest magazine, will be held in Tacoma Wednesday. She died there Saturday. She was the widow of Rev. T. Davis Acheson. She was born in Brandon, Man., and had lived in Tacoma for many years.

pictures full of the color of far places by Marjorie Dean, A.R.P.S., and a still life, "Poise?—Poey!!!" among several skilled and beautiful subjects by H. Tyzack.

The object of the Victoria Photographic Association is to put on exhibitions and an annual international salon, the first of which will take place from October 20 to November 1 of this year. This will be the photographic event of the year and it is planned to send out about 2,000 invitations. Fifty inquiries have been received already, one from as far afield as Cuba. The judges will be H. Tyzack, H. G. Cox and Jack Shadbolt.

Mr. Tyzack will also give a criticism of the prints in the present exhibition at a meeting to be held Thursday.

Girls' Drill Team Enjoys Picnic

Members of the Victoria Girls' Drill Team picnicked yesterday evening at Esquimalt Lagoon. The beach party was arranged by the tourist trade group of the Chamber of Commerce.

Nine private cars carried the girls to the lagoon, where a fire had been built by Bill Clark. The girls had a supper of wienies, marshmallows, ice cream and watermelon, and sang to music provided by Jim Haggerty and his accordion. A few went swimming.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce who arranged the picnic and provided transportation were: Warren Martin, Ed. Rowbottom, J. G. Neely, J. V. Johnston, Mr. Goldburn, Francis Norton, Len Woodhouse, Frank Wilfert, Frank Waring and Sam Winterbottom.

Apricot and Apple Supplies Finished

Wholesale row announced this morning that no further supplies of Okanagan apricots will arrive in town, this fruit now being well past its prime, but that dealers were looking forward to receiving shipments of peaches and canteloupes from that source within the next ten days.

Also disappearing from the market are last year's Okanagan apples. All that is left in the city is about one week's supply of Winesaps. A car of Okanagan tomatoes arrived here yesterday, but the whole shipment has now been sold. A car of Rochester peaches was received from Yakima yesterday and a car of watermelons arrived in the city today.

At present the orange market is firm and price increases are expected soon. Potato prices have declined this week and are near the season's low mark.

Kiwanis Delegates Named at Luncheon

Harold Diggon and Alastair Campbell were elected to represent the Victoria Kiwanis Club at the Salem district conference on August 17, 18 and 19, at that organization's luncheon meeting at the Empress Hotel today. William Lawson and A. McDermid were named as alternates.

There was no speaker at the meeting but a lively symposium on matters pertaining to the club was conducted by Harold Diggon. Club music, different forms of luncheon entertainment and civic and wartime projects were discussed.

FAVOR SIRENS FOR BLACKOUT

Establishment of an efficient alarm system claimed the main interest of the local A.R.P. office today as rapidly-moving events in the Far East brought home the advisability of further blackout practices in Victoria.

Without wishing to be pessimistic, W. E. Ellis, chief local A.R.P. officer, indicated today action would be taken shortly to secure another test in view of possible Japanese fleet activity which might spread to this coast.

Following the highly-successful test here in May, local officials have been busy preparing a report embodying recommendations which would further increase the smoothness of a blackout here. The signal system was one point occupying their attention.

While the details have yet to be worked out, it was understood use of sirens in various localities would solve the warning problem. Mr. Ellis indicated a dozen would be required to serve all districts reaching as far north as the south boundary of North Saanich.

Creation of sub-control centres in the different areas of the metropolitan region are also favored by Mr. Ellis, who has drafted a scheme whereby such district stations would have direct contact with the main centre.

When the signal question has been worked out blackouts could be staged with but a few minutes' notice, Mr. Ellis stated, adding he expected to see tests made in the not distant future.

Tonight at 8 in the lower hall, First Baptist Church, the Victoria headquarters British-Israel World Federation, will hold its monthly service of special prayers for "our cause, leaders and forces."

In addition to dancing on the green and community singing at Beacon Hill Park Wednesday at 8, Miss Enid Middleton and Bob Henson will render solos. Miss Mabel Irvine's orchestra will supply the music and the master of ceremonies will be Roger (Curly) Perullet. There will also be a competition for the men of the army, navy and air force, the prizes being awarded to the best duet, to be judged by applause meter.

A scene from "Million Dollar Baby" now at the Dominion Theatre.

Priscilla Lane
'Million Dollar Baby'

If you've ever wondered what you'd do if you suddenly fell heir to a million dollars, you won't want to miss Dominion's attraction, "Million Dollar Baby," which is showing today. Starring Priscilla Lane, lovely young star of
"Four Daughters," with Jeffrey
Lynn, her "Four Daughters" boy friend, and Ronald Reagan, "Million Dollar Baby" is a Cinderella story with a couple of reverse angles.

Priscilla is working in Lacey's basement, demonstrating a wonder-working vegetable cutter when she gets a cheque for a million dollars. She goes completely berserk, tosses vegetables all over the place and, standing up on the counter, proceeds to sell the gadget. With Jeffrey Lynn, the young lawyer who has delivered the cheque to her from his client, she goes on a wild shopping spree.

'Here Comes the Navy' at Atlas

Tomorrow the Atlas Theatre will show a return engagement of "Here Comes the Navy," starring James Cagney and Pat O'Brien. Warner Bros. have arranged to show this film because they believe that it is timely due to the interest in our national defence. The Ben Markson story tells of two sailors who forget their loves and hates when called to defend their country.

PLAZA THEATRE

The story behind the blitzkrieg,
the spectacle of nations of the world careening madly along the road to war, comes to the screen in Paramount's challenging, sensational fact picture, "World In Flames," now at the Plaza Theatre.

Produced entirely from newsreels made in the period from 1929 to 1940, "World In Flames" accomplishes what few motion pictures have ever attempted before. It makes clear to motion picture audiences the events and processes that are now reaching their climax in the World War that now envelops Europe, Asia and Africa, and threatens to involve the Western Hemisphere.

Fighting Machine
Production Filmed

The National Film Board has produced a timely, informative film release which shows how Canadian workers are turning out
"fighting machines for Empire fighting men." This fast-moving view of an important phase of Canada's war effort is featured in the current "Canada Carries On" release, "Strategy of Metals,"
atre, July 30, 31 and August 1.
Along with an exceptionally entertaining regular program, moviegoers this week will get a dramatic "close-up" of the complicated machinery and skilled manpower which is striving night and day to speed the steady flow of military vehicles to Empire armies. Perhaps the most spectacular of these modern war-making machines is the Universal Gun Carrier, the "Battle Taxi" which travels over roadless terrain at better than 40 miles an hour with a machine-gun crew, ammunition and supplies. The film shows how these and other military vehicles are put through gruelling tests on a "mock battlefield."

Included in the formidable array of military vehicles being turned out by Canada's automotive experts, are gun carriers, artillery tractors, mobile workshops, refuelling tenders (for Empire fighting planes), Red Cross ambulances
